Kuwait says Tunisia seeks improved ties

KUWAIT (R) — Tunisian President Zine Al Abidine Ben Ali expressed a wish for improved relations with Kuwait in a letter delivered on Sunday to the emir, a Kuwaiti official said. The Tunisian leader said in the letter be sought an end to "negative effects" caused by the 1990-91 Gulf crisis, Cabinet Affairs Minister Abdul Aziz Al Dakhil said in a statement. The message was handed to the emir, Sheikh Jaber Al Ahmad Al Sabah, by visiting Tunisian Foreign Minister Habib Ben Yahia, the statement carried by the official Kuwait News Agency said. Mr. Ben Yahia also held a separate meeting with the crown prince and prime minister. Sheikh Saad Al Abdullah Al Sabah. He leaves on Monday after a two-day visit described by some Kuwaiti members of parliament as inappropriate because of Tunisian sympathy for Iraq during the Gulf crisis. Mr. Dakhil said Mr. Ben Ali "expressed Tunisia's keenness to end the negative effects left by the Iraqi aggression against and occupation of Kuwait, and to establish a new base for relations between the committee of the region based on international legitimacy and adherence to U.N. resolutions.

Volume 17 Number 5336

AMMAN MONDAY, JUNE 21, 1993 MUHARRAM 1, 1414

Price: 150 Fils

Palestinians object to Kurtzer appointment

OCCUPIED JERUSALEM (AP) — A senior adviser to the Palestinian delegation to the peace talks has objected to a reported key U.S. diplomatic appointment as pro-Israel. Daniel Kurtzer, a senior State Department official, was named to re-place Molly Williamson as U.S. consul in Arab East Jerusalem when she leaves the post in July, Israel Radio reported. Mr. Kurtzer, who is Jewish, is seen by Palestinians as pro-Israel. "Palestinians usually see the U.S. as not a fair partner in the talks," Azmi Shuabi, a member of the Palestinian committee monitoring the peace talks, told the Associated Press.

Quake rocks Israel

o now or dura

tettre -

510 % Lebu™

uell au

orbidi.

еен: с

decor. Calledy

an ar

150 5

W 257

TEL AVIV (AP) - An earthquake struck Sunday in northern Israel, shaking tables and chairs, but causing no damage or injuries, an official said. Israel Radio said tremors were felt in the coastal cities of Haifa and Acco, inland in Nazareth and Safed and parts of southen Lebanon, at about 13:15 (10:15 GMT). Ami Shapira of the Israel seismological institute said the quake's epicentre was in the Mediterranean Sea off the South Lebanese coast. He said it measured 4 on

Ishaq Khan snubbed

ISLAMABAD (R) — Pakistan's Lower House of Parliament, in a snub to President Ghulam Ishaq Khan, decided on Sunday to set up a committee to recommend on cutting his powers. Prime Minister Nawaz Sharif, who is engaged in a bitter power struggle with the president, welcomed the surprise move in the national assembly as "a good step in the right direc-

China beats Iraq

CHENGDU (AFP) - China. beat Iraq 2-1 in their second-leg game here Sunday, but it was the osing Iraqis who will enter the second round of the Asian Zone World Cup qualifying tourna-ment. The win gave the Chinese 12 points in the round, just one less than Iraq but not enough to advance. Iraq, which had clin-ched its berth in the second round on Friday with a 4-0 win over Pakistan, rested a number of its top players for Sunday's match, which was meaningless for the side. Earlier in the day, Jordan trounced winless Pakistan 5-0 in another Group A match (see page

Ramos expects Philippines peace

NEW YORK (R) — Philippine resident Fidel Ramos says he does not expect a repeat of the military coup attempts or violence from communist insurgents and Muslim separatists that plagued predecessor Cory Aquino, according to Newsweek international magazine. Mr. Ramos marks his first year in office June 30. "Since I was elected we've been able to bring leaders of the Muslim secessionists and the military rebels to the conference table and we've had a meeting abroad with communist insurgency leaders," he said.

Rebels close to Baku

BAKU (R) - Rebels advanced on Azerbaijan's capital Baku ary leader Geidar Aliyev appealed to fugitive President Abulfaz Elcibey to return to attend an emergency session of parliament. A Reuter television crew said 300 armed supporters of rebel leader Suret Guseinov had advanced to within 14 kilometres of the capital. (see page 8).

Polisario moves

ALGIERS (AP) - The Polisario Front, the guerrilla group that waged a long, costly war with Morocco for independence of the Western Sahara, said Sunday it has lifted its "reserves" on part of the U.N. project to hold a referendum this year. Polisario leader Bachir Mustapha Sayed told Algeria's official APS news agency that the organisation has aimed at identifying Sahraouiesfor the vote.

Bilateral talks

U.S., said the State Department legation.
was hosting an American- "The change of administration was hosting an American"The change of administration Mexican trade conference on has been very bad for us," he said Monday and hence the one-day privately. delay.

In comments carried by the think the Americans would be Jordan News Agency, Petra, Dr. impartial, but we did believe they Tarawneh said the Jordanian side would try to keep a balance bewas still discussing a draft agenda tween us and the Israelis," he with the Israelis and issues such said. as water rights, family reunions official in the peace talks, as 13. Washington's ambassador to Israel, Dr. Tarawneh said: "The important thing is that the declared American commitment to be an unbiased partner in the peace process should remain as it

Meanwhile, Palestinian negotiators are accusing the U.S. of siding with Israel in the peace process and undermining their, negotiating positions.

The head of the Palestinian team in the bilateral talks with Israel called for a reform of the peace process, attacked Washington and warned the Palestinians were growing increasingly disillu-

"The process has lost its credibility and straightforwardness and it needs reforms. The situa-tion must be corrected," Haidar Abdul Shafi said on the Londonbased Middle East Broadcasting Centre (MBC) television late Saturday.

"Israel must be forced to respect the principles of the peace process and the United States must adopt a position that is compatible with the basis of the negotiating process," he said.

"The U.S. attitude reflects a complete bias for the Israeli side and reduces the eligibility of Washington as a sponsor of the negotiations. I am very resentful of the U.S. stand which will not help establish peace."

Dr. Abdul Shafi said there was overwhelming support from the from the Palestinians before the Palestinian people when the start of the tenth session, a U.S. peace process was launched at the source said. Madrid conference of October 1991.

"Their support has begun to

OCCUPIED JERUSALEM

(Agencies) — Israel Sunday

eased a three-month ban on

Palestinians from the occupied territories entering the country,

agreeing to allow in Palestinians

aged over 50 years, Israel Radio

Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin

amnounced the move during the weekly cabinet meeting.

Israel sealed off the Gaza Strip and West Bank at the end of March after Palestinians killed 15

Israelis during the month.
That prevented 120,000

Palestinians from reaching their jobs in Israel, but the occupation authorities have since granted work permits to about 45,000

Colonel Hanan Robin, military administration spokesman, said only a few hundred Palestinians

aged over 50 had been employed in Israel before the ban. The majority were aged between 25

Palestinians have protested bitterly at loss of earnings and particularly the ban on entering Arab non where he has languished

their expulsion six months ago.

"The ICRC (International Committee of the Red Cross)

made a request and on humanitaspokesman Oded Ben-Ami.

East Jerusalem.

Israel eases entry ban,

to take back sick exile

restart tomorrow

WASHINGTON (Agencies) — is that everything is in Israel's The Tenth round of Arab-Israeli grip and it continues to change peace talks will resume Tuesday the face of the land," he said. after a weekend recess and a Dr. Shafi said he did not expect one-day delay caused by U.S. a joint declaration of principles to State Department preoccupa- emerge from the current round of tions, Jordan's chief negotiator negotiations.

Fayez Tarawneh said Sunday.

The Clinton administration has

Dr. Tarawneh, who is also the been far from impartial, said an Kingdom's ambassador to the official with the Palestinian de-

We are not so naive as to Palestinian spokeswoman and Israeli-occupied Jordanian Hanan Ashrawi said: "The Americans who said they would Commenting on the appoint- act as partners in the whole peace ment of Assistant Secretary of process completely went over to State for Near East Affairs Ed-the Israeli side at the ninth round ward Djerejian, a key American of talks" from April 27 to May

> "The ninth session was the the Palestinian source

"We agreed to take part because the Americans made us a number of promises, but they hardly kept any of them."

He said Washington promised that Palestinians expelled from the occupied territories since 1967, or those expelled in December, would be allowed to return and that elderly and ill prisoners would be released. Of the Palestinians expelled since 1967, just 30 have been allowed back Also, the United States vowed to play an active, but impartial role in the talks between Israel and its Arab neighbours, the source told AFP. Washington said it would try to persuade oil-producing Arab countries to resume aid to the after the Gulf war, the Palestinian source said.

Palestinian-U.S. relations fell into crisis after the ninth round of talks, during which Washington presented a blueprint for autonomy in the occupied territories. The Palestinians rejected the proposals, saying Washington was toeing the Israeli line and had even cooperated with Israel in preparing the document. U.S. officials were irritated by the tone of a letter they received

The Palestinians called on the Clinton administration to state its position on its role in the peace recede due to lack of progress in process, and particularly its view the negotiations. Another reason on the future of Jerusalem.

He said he did not know the sick man's name. He added his return would be coordinated with parties for the return of all the deportees and in particular those who need medical treatment as is the case here," said Pierre Ryter, deputy chief of the ICRC deleg-

The expellee had recently attacked several of his fellow exiles with an axe, Mr. Ben-Ami

Palestinian sources named the man as Ali Abu Ajweh, 37, from

"We are in contact with all the ICRC.

tion in Israel.

PRINCESS VISITS BOSNIANS: Her Royal High-ness Princess Sarvath Sunday visits Bos fugees hosted by Jordan (Petra photo)

Second Bosnian group arrives

By P.V. Vivekanand Jordan Times Staff Reporter AMMAN — The second group of Bosnian Muslim refugees arrived here Sunday, bringing with them tales of untold misery, suffering and brutality inflicted upon them by Serbs and Croats in former Yugoslavia.

The plane-load of around 250 men, women and children joined 180 compatriots who arrived Friday for temporary shelter in Jordan pending an end to the bloody conflict in. their homeland.

Receiving the group upon its arrival was His Royal Highness Crown Prince Hassan, the Regent, Her Royal Highness Princess Sarvath, His Royal Highness Prince Faisal and other members of the Royal family as well as senior officials (see separate story).

Many of the refugees. housed at a school in the Joffeh neighbourhood of the capital. were former detainees in Serb and Croat prisoner camps and, by their owns accounts, suffered brutality unheard of since World War II and the Vietnam War.

Their releases at varying points in time since June last year came after an international outcry sparked by television footage vividly establishing the existence of Nazi-like prison camps and the Serb policy of "ethnic cleansing" of Muslims. Camps in Croatia were evacuated ahead of what is expected to be a Croatian influx into Croatia from Bosnia-Herzegovina.

Croats and Bosnian Muslims have been allies against the Serbs in theory, but the two sides have been locked in an intermittent battle for territory in Bosnian-Herzegovina as

(Continued on page 10)

Regent denounces forced migration

HIS ROYAL Highness Crown Prince Hassan, the Regent, said Sunday Jordan does not back any policies that could encourage or force people to emigrate.

He noted that Jordan's hosting of displaced people from the former Yugoslavia came as a result of a humanitarian gesture and in agreement with the authorities of the Bosnia-Herzegovina in the former Yugoslav republic.
"Our aim of hosting the displaced people is to offer them a better treatment and way of life than that accorded to them at the transit camps," said the Regent in a press statement and last group of Bosnian families who arrived at dawn Sunday the Queen Alia International Airport (see separate story).

"The Bosnian familes' stay in Jordan is transitional and temporary until they have been repatriated to their own homeland where they can live in dignity," the Regent said. Other countries in Europe and the Arab World had taken a similar step in hosting the Bosnians, he said. Jordan will treat the Bosnian families with respect and offer them attention and service as ordinary citizens and not as refugees, he Asked whether the Bosnians would be offered vocational training, the Regent said: "Everyone of them is welcome to work in his or her own specialisation. But we have noticed that most of the students are inclined to attain university education,'

In response to a question on the delay on the part of the international community to come to the help to the Bosmian population or finding a solution to their ordeal, the Regent said that the international community was adopting a double standard policy in dealing with world issues. "It is regrettable to see persecution continuing against ethnic groups who continue to suffer in horrible conditions," the Regent said.

The refugees were received upon arrival by his Royal Highness Prince Faisal Ben Al Princess Sarvath Al Hassan, Prince Raad Ibn Zeid, Minister of Information Maan Abu Nowar and other officials as well as Minister of Awqaf and Islamic Affairs Abdul Salam Al Abbadi. Her Royal Highness Princess Sarvath Sunday visited the centre hosting the Muslim Bos-Princess Sarvath inspected the centre's various facilities and expressed satisfaction with the level of services offered to Princess Sarvath was received upon arrival by Minister of Awgaf and Islamic Affairs Abdul Salam Al Abbadi, who is also the secretary general of the Jordan Hashemite Charitable Organisation.

Princess Sarvath also visited Bosnians being treated from wounds and injuries at Al Bashir Hospital.

Palestinian police trainees arrive

By a Jordan Times Staff Reporter with agency despatches

AMMAN — A group of Palestinians arrived in Jordan Sunday to be trained as policemen to serve in the Israeli-occupied territories during an interim five-year period of Palestinian rule there as part of the Middle East peace process.

Jordanian officials and Palestinian sources said the group of 37, which would form the nucleus of the proposed Palestinian forces

reports from occupied Jerusalem

Jordan approved a Palestinian request that some of the force be trained in the Kingdom several

Acting Prime Minister Maan

Abu Nowar was quoted as saying by AFP that "We have always given our support to our Palestinian brothers each time they've

A Palestinian source said Jor; dan would cover the cost of their stay and training.

The training of these officers,

he added, "is part of preparations for setting up Palestinian institutions" in the occupied territories

under the current peace negotiaweeks ago, officials said.

asked for it."

Bureij refugee camp who had would be trained at Amman's been a business lecturer at the Islamic University in the Gaza Police Academy. Israel agreed to allow the de-Strip until Israel expelled him. ployment of the police force in Family members said Dr. Abu Ajweh was healthy at the time of the occupied territories during the expulsion. the ninth round of peace talks in Washington in April and May,

On Friday the exiles appealed to the Red Cross to evacuate sick men from their camp, including Mr. Abu Ajweh. Three Jordanian doctors visited the exiles last Thursday. They said 15 were suffering from disorders in joints caused by tor-Israel also said Sunday it would ture in Israeli jails and needed allow a mentally ill Palestinian urgent surgery, and eight others expellee to return home from a required laboratory and X-ray makeshift camp in South Leba- tests.

Israel expelled 415 Palestinians along with 395 other men since as alleged Muslims activists last Dec. 17.

Nineteen expellees, five sick and 14 Israel said were expelled by mistake, were evacuated from rian grounds we approved it. He the camp in January aboard heliis mentally ill" said Mr. Rabin's copters in two operations arranged by the ICRC.

police force was envisaged under negotiations. the 1978 Camp David accords

The hundred the first policy of the hundred th which brought peace between Israel and Egypt. working for an Israeli-controlled police force resigned after the Palestinian newspapers say the force may number 10,000-30,000 men. Sources in Amman could not confirm the figure.

"These people will form the nied the group from the West months. Bank, told Reuters. He sa "There were preliminary talks in Tunis and Egypt and France but this is the first real training on police work and security," said tion adviser to the Palestinian peace delegation.

on police work in Jordan," a Jordanian official told Reuters.

added. Palestine Liberation Organisa-

denied that the group was part of the proposed police force. They said the recruits were security guards who would protect Palestinian peace negotiators at Orient House, the East Jerusalem headquarters of the delega- they would shoot Palestinians tion to Middle East peace talks. carrying arms, even if they wore Members of the Palestinian peace police uniforms.

ons. delegation have received death threats from opponents of the

The hundreds of Palestinians police force resigned after the 1987 start of the intifada. Mr. Abdul Qader said the men, all between the ages of 24 and 30, were delayed on the western side of the Jordan River nucleus of a Palestinian police crossing Sunday after they reforce," Hatem Abdul Qader, a fused to sign agreements that Palestinian official who accompa- they would not return before nine

He said the time limit was dropped to one month after what Palestinian sources said was U.S. Israeli Police Minister Moshe

Mr. Abdul Qader, an informa- Shahal said in occupied Jerusalem on Sunday that the Jewish state favoured a Palestinian "It has been agreed with the police force as part of a self-rule Palestinians to train Palestinians arrangement for the territories. "I think that Egypt and Jordan are the preferable places for "We are ready to provide ser- training. Probably they will try vices and support Palestinians for and have some help from Euroeverything that they request," he pean countries," he told reporters after a cabinet meeting.

Mr. Shahal has said the police tion (PLO) officials had earlier force would number several thousand Palestinians carrying light arms."

Past reports of a Palestinian police force have angered rightwing Jewish settlers living in the occupied territories. Some said

Gores visit King and Queen; IMF pledges continued help

WASHINGTON (Petra) — U.S. Vice-President Al Gore and his wife Sunday visited Their Majesties King Hussein and Queen Noon at their residence in Washington. King Hussein and Mr. Gore discussed issues of common interest, Jordanian-American relations and regional and international developments. Mr. and Mrs. Gore had lunch with Their Majesties at their residence. King Hussein also received the executive chief of the International Monetary Fund (IMF), Michel Camdessus. The King underlined the importance of cooperation among world states to achieve comprehensive development. Mr. Camdessus commended Jordan's efforts to economic reform and its positive relations with international bodies.

He said the IMF admires Jordan's achievements, adding that the IMF is willing to offer every possible assistance to Jordan to enable it to achieve its economic objectives.

Regent congratulates King

AMMAN (J.T.) — His Royal Highness Crown Prince Hassan, the Regent, Sunday sent a cable to His Majesty King Hussein congratulating him on the new Hijra year and wishing him good health and happiness. On the occasion, Prince Hassan recalled King Hussein's generous contributions last year to restore the Dome of the Rock and Al Aqsa mosques in occupied Jerusalem as well as mosques of the Prophet Mohammad's companions in Jordan. The Crown Prince praised King Hussein's efforts to Jordan. The Crown Prince praised King Hussein's efforts to ensure broader public participation and to foster the march of democracy, and his ongoing endeavours to advocate a just, comprehensive and durable peace, in the region. He noted that Jordan has always advocated the principles of development, democracy and human rights.

Aideed on the run

Farah Aideed remained on the said they feared distribution run Sunday as the U.N. aban-points had not been cleared of doned plans to drop food in his snipers.
backyard when U.N. peacekeepers supposed to guard it said they men," said Pakistani Captain feared sniper fire.

Hundreds of Somalis demonstrated for and against United had been assembled to give to the Nations peacekeepers in General needy. Aideed's jittery southern Mogadishu stronghold.

held banners denouncing U.S. provided because they're sur-President Bill Clinton and the rounded by high ground, and I U.N. forces and vowed that the would die before allowing their incident with my men." leader to be captured.

ronded by a chanting crowd on a tions. tated city.

past week on Aideed targets in Mogadishu.

In another part of the city whereabouts, U.N. military offiseveral kilometres away, a few cials say privately they are fairly hundred supporters of Aideed's certain where he is holed up. But rival and Interim President Ali they say it could take days or Mahdi Mohammad staged a pro- more for him to surface long U.N. demonstration.

They chanted "Long live (the U.N. Somali mission) UN- Howe was urged Gen. Aideed to OSOM" and "We don't want surrender. Aideed as a dictator." The pro-U.N. demonstration was in Medina district, an enclave of Mr. Ali Mahdi's supporters. The U.N. plan to drop food in an Aideed stronghold in Moga-under sniper fire. troops and an arrest warrant for Gen. Aideed.

tribution was postponed until arily settled in refugee camps in Monday because of "misunder- Aden suburbs.

MOGADISHU (Agencies) — standings." Pakistani troops Fugitive warlord Mohammad assembled to guard the handout

Zahid Hussain at Mogadishu port, where 170 tonnes of grain

"I have to get them home alive, and there are some feeding sites Pro-Aideed demonstrators where adequate security can't be

don't want a repeat of the der to be captured.

Gen. Aideed disappeared on Thursday when the U.N. said it

They came not to support us but wanted to arrest him but his to destroy and kill us," said gunmen have carried out daily Mohammad Hassan Farah, sur- sniping attacks on U.N. posipiece of wasteland in this devas- The U.N. accuses him of masterminding the ambush and "Medicine not missiles," read violating a series of agreements to another poster, a reference to place his heavy weapons in areas attacks by U.S. forces over the open to inspection and to disarm his militia. Rumours abound over his > enough to be apprehended safely. U.N. special envoy Jonathan

Somali refugees arrive in Aden

Some 250 Somali "boat people" have recently arrived in Yemen seeking refuge and none of them are followers Gen. Aideed, a dishu was abandoned when U.N. official said Sunday. Carlos Pakistani troops supposed to Zaccagnini told AFP the Somalis guard it said they feared coming arrived in Aden aboard small boats after a five-day trip. Re-It would have been the first ports that some of them are partihandout to areas controlled by sans of General Aideed are total-Gen. Aideed since his militia ly unfounded, Mr. Zaccagnini, attacked and killed 24 Pakistanis the representative of the U.N. on June 5, provoking a military High Commissioner for Refugees showdown with United Nations (UNHCR) said.

Tawfik Wannas, another UNHCR official, told AFP that A U.N. spokesman said dis- 100 of the Somalis were tempor-

> Upon the Occasion of Al-Hijra Year

ARAB BANK

is honoured to convey to

MAJESTY KING HUSSEIN

and to the Jordanian people its felicitations and most cordial wishes

towards referendum

NEWS IN BRIEF

TEL AVIV (AFP) — A monkey played all sorts of tricks on a panic-stricken family in a Tel Aviv suburb before biting a policeman who tried to catch the macaque. Shoshana Hassid had the surprise of her life when she went to answer a knock at the door of her house on Saturday. The grey and white beast bounded inside, sat on the sofa and started to make a terrible din. The Hassid parents and children fled to neighbours. "I called the police who took a long time to come," neighbour Shimon Giovanni told setting about one of the officers, biting his arm. Police called in a scrang about one of the officers, bring his arm. Fonce caned in a team of vets from a nearby 200 who shot a tranquiliser into the primate. The owner of the monkey, which is cooling its heels in the Ramat Gan Safari 200, has failed to come forward.

MANAMA (R) - The U.S. aircraft carrier Nimitz has left the Gulf on a routine rotation but the U.S. maintains adequate force in the region, a navy spokesman said Sunday. Lieutenant Comman-

the region, a navy spokesman said Sunday. Lieutenant Commander Bruce Cole, said the Nimitz carrier group passed through the Strait of Hormuz and was in the Arabian Sea after spending three months, a normal tour, in the Gulf. "There are still United States air force aircraft in the region, and we stil have Tomahawk (cruise missile) capabilities in the region," Lt. Comm. Cole said. "We still have a very potent force if called upon." The navy has about 10 ships left in the Gulf and Lt. Comm. Cole said another aircraft carrier battle group would be arriving. He declined to name it has carrier battle group would be arriving. He declined to name it, but noted that the last carrier to leave the U.S. west coast, headed for the west Pacific and Indian Ocean, was the USS Abraham Lincoln.

IAKARTA (AFP) - More than 300 Indonesian Muslims died

while on the Haj pilgrimage to Mecca this year, mostly of old age, heart disease and heat stroke, an official said over the week end.

"As of Saturday, at least 324 Indonesian pilgrims had died while performing the rituals," said Nurma Murdin of the Haj division of the Religious Affairs Ministry. A total of 122,882 Indonesians made the pilgrimage this year, Mr. Nurdin said, with the last due home in July. Last year 104.861 went, out of which 366 died.

TEL AVIV (AFP) - A science and technology delegation from Seoul is paying the first official South Korean visit to Israel in a bid to boost cooperation, officials said Sunday. The five-member delegation led by Yu Hee Yol, director-general of the Science and Koreans, who were to leave Wednesday after a week-long stay, are visiting Israeli scientific establishments. The two countries opened ties in 1962 and Israel has an embassy in Seoul but the Korean

Briton, German appeal to Iraq high court

BAGHDAD (R) — A Briton and a German serving eight years in Technology Ministry, is also preparing a visit expected later this year by the South Korean minister for science and technology. The

South Korean delegation visits Israel

MAYEAR

Lolds elec.

2745 W

700 300

ا بخالتُو کيد

198 ± .

ಿ ಕಿಂಗಾತಿ

 h . .

المحالحة

haaa a

Rades

fig. of

- into Sued

^첫의 School

ast set

T. Dies

die with

· Lardens

More than 300 Indonesians die on Haj

AFP. When they did turn up the monkey ran around wildly before

Monkey bites Israeli policeman

U.S. carrier Nimitz leaves Gulf

Sudanese rebels enter fresh truce agreement

NAIROBI (Agencies) — For the second time in four weeks, the two main factions of the Sudan resple's Liberation Army (SPLA) have agreed to stop fighting and facilitate relief work in southern Sudan, the movement's officials here said Sunday.

John Garang's mainstream SPLA and Rick Machar's breakaway SPLA-united met in Nairoof on Saturday under the chairmianship of the U.S. ambassador to Sudan. Donald Petterson.

.- They agreed on a truce and to appoint representatives to review humanitarian needs in the conflict areas of Ayod, Kongor, Waat and Yuai.

The two sides agreed on a ceasefire on May 27 to allow urgent delivery of relief aid but they have since accused each other of violating the agreement. The SPLA has been fighting the covernment in Khartoum since 1983 demanding a secular Sudan and an end to domination of the mainly animist and Christian south by the Muslim. Arabised north. But the movement split into two feuding factions in August after two SPLA leader Riek Colonel Garang of dictatorship.

The United Nations has estimated there are 1.5 million people in southern Sudan in need of food, medicine and other relief supplies. But the triangle formed by the towns of Kongor, Ayod and Waat — about 450 kilometres from Sudan's border with Kenya, - is said to have the highest concentration of severely malnourished people.

Relief Workers have estimated that at least hundreds -- probably thousands — of people died in April and May when rebel factional fighting swept through the area, closing or destroying feeding centers.

The two SPLA factions agreed to withdraw by June 5 from that area, but they never did and each blamed each other for the plan's

On Saturday, they signed an agreement that each side would send a representative into the area at least once a week to check on relief efforts and make sure the military withdrawal is

There are an estimated 40,000 people in that region the U.N. says would die without food. There are probably twice that many in the surrounding countryside whose medical conditions and food needs are unknown, according to the U.N.'s World Food Programme.

Nathan plans Libya trip

TUNIS (AP) - Israeli peace activist Abie Nathan said Sunday he planned to visit Libya for discussions with Muammar Qadnafi on Jewish-Libyan relations and the crisis between Libya and the United States over the 1988 bombing of Pan Am Flight

Mr. Nathan, who has been in Tunis talking to Palestinian leaders, said his trip to Libya was simed at promoting "the new Libyan position.

"I also want to check myself the news that Israelis will be allowed to visit Libva and discuss arrangements for a Jewish-Muslim conference to be hosted by Libva," he said, ivir. Nathan said he applied for the vise at the Libvan embassy in Paris and was told to wait for it in Tunis. "I hope I will get it soon and clan to go down as soon as I get t," hes aid. Hostile relations between Libya and Israel were eased a bit earlier this month when a group of Muslim pilgrims from Libya was allowed to visit occupied Jerusalem. ; . "I am looking forward to meeting Qadhafi and discuss his offers to allow Israelis to go to Libya and also his problems with the United States," he said.

Libya is under U.N. air, arms and diplomatic sanctions for refusing to turn over two suspects in the bombing of Flight 103 over Lockerbie, Scotland, to Western

Mr. Nathan arrived in Tunis Thursday and had meetings with Palestine Liberation Organisation (PLO) Chairman Yasser Arafat and other PLO officials. He said his talks with Mr. Arafat focused on the Arab-Israeli peace talks, which he de-scribed as "moving in slow motion" since they were launched in October 1991 in Madrid.

"We must speed it up," he said, "and the only way to do that is to talk directly to the PLO."
Israel refuses to deal with the

Mr. Nathan said the Israeli government is actuallay talking to the PLO indirectly through the Palestinian negotiators, who receive instructions from the PLO. But he said if talks are to be speeded. up the Jewish state should enter direct negotiations.

Mr. Nathan, 64, is a veteran peace activist in Israel. He served prison sentences in 1989 and 1991 for violating an Israeli law against meeting representatives of the PLO. That law was lifted in January.

suspect to letter — sources

envelope via a DNA test.

When Mr. Ayyad was arrested on March 10, federal agents also latter, which claimed reponsibilgroup was protesting against American aid to Israel.

the saliva samples taken from his client.

nying the report," he added. Mr. Ahmad said he would call on DNA experts to challenge any scientific genetic evidence if an analysis match. Mr. Ahmad also said that he would seek to suppress a brief statement Mr. Ayyad made to police from inclusion in any trial.

The lawyer paraphrased Mr. Ayyad as telling police, when asked about the blast: "I'll did not feel this was incriminating, he was moving to suppress it in any event.

case were expected soon.

early Sunday (Photo by Yousef Al 'Allan)

Kuwait to honour King Fahd

KUWAIT (R) - Kuwait wants to invite King Fahd of Saudi Arabia for a visit to honour his role in helping liberate the emirate from Iraqi occupation, a senior official was quoted Sunday

"We hope the visit will take place very soon because His Highness the emir and the Kuwaiti people want to have the chance to honour the king for his great role," Kuwaiti Information Minister Sheikh Saud Nasser Al Sabah said. Sheikh Saud made the remarks in Bahrain at the end of a one-week tour of Gulf states including Saudi Arabia, Al Seyasseh and its sister paper Arab Times reported.

Former U.S. President George Bush and former senior col-leagues made a triumphal visit to Kuwait in April. They received lavish tributes for their leadership of the 28-nation military coalition that ousted Iraqi troops in Febru-King Fahd did not require an invitation to visit Kuwait because it was his country, Sheikh Saud was quoted as saying.

"But the invitation has to go through diplomatic channels because we want this visit to take place as soon as possible so the Kuwaiti people could have the chance to honour this great leader,

The U.S.-led coalition launched Operation Desert Strom from bases in neighbouring Saudi Arabia, which also supplied military contingents to the Western. Arab and Asian alliance.

Sheikh Saud said that during a meeting he had held with King Fahd during his tour the Saudi monarch had called on Gulf states to become more cohesive.

"The Gulf states after the invasion of Kuwait and the subsequent liberation should move in close coordination with each other whether towards friends or against enemies," Sheikh Saud

"Saudi Arabia will remain the big sister for all the Gulf states. As it stood firmly with Kuwait during the invasion it will stand with all other Gulf states in case of any problem." Sheikh Saud was quoted as saying. Sheikh Saud said King Fahd had spoken of the need to link the Gulf states more closely so they could more efficiently face the changes in the world. Coordination would prevent undesriable

U.N. supports multi-party Afghan cabinet

Nations has declared support for the new multi-party government in Afghanistan, devastated by factional fighting since the fall of the communist regime, the offi-cial Bakhtar news agency said representative on Afghanistan, Sotirios Mousouris, had sent a letter to Afghan President Burhanuddin Rabbani, stating his support for the broad-based govern-Mr. Mousouris also said he hoped to visit Kabul in the coming weeks to discuss ways in which the U.N. could assist

Expatriate United Nations staff

Radical factional leader Gulbuddin Hekmatyar was sworn in as prime minister Thursday at a ceremony west of Kabul in the presence of Mr. Rabbani, a political opponent, under a plan announced by nine warring faction leaders a month ago. However, Mr. Hekmatyar was yet to enter Kabul, citing fears for his own security, and witnessessaid several rockets fell in Kabul's northern Khair Khanna area Sunday, but were unable to say who The witnesses said political tension was still high in the capital. and one of Mr. Hekmatyar's polipulled out of Afghanistan last tical officers said Sunday ways of

also told AFP that eight out of 18 ministers in the new government had started working, and added that the new unified Islamic army in Kabul would admit former soldiers of the old communist government if they were not purely political communist offic-

Mr. Mousouris' letter followed similar expression of support for the new multi-party govern-ment by Iranian Deputy Foreign Minister Alaeddin Borujerdi

City hospitals said they had received no immediate reports of casualties from the Khair Khanna prison for illegal entry have appealed against the sentence to Iraq's high court, a Russian diplomat said on Sunday. "The standard ambassador in Rome is accredited to Israel.

in Iraq has done that." Oleg Dessiantnikov, secretary of the consular section looking after British interests in Baghdad, told Reuters. Mr. Dessiantnikov said he had little hope the Iraqi court would review the jail sentence. Similar appeals by other foreigners [3:303:30] jailed in Iraq were all rejected. Under Iraqi law, people entering without visas can be jailed between one and 20 years. But there have been cases in which offenders were expelled or given suspended sentences. Briton Simon Dunn, 23, and German Kai Sondermann, are in Abu Ghraib prison on the western outskirts of Baghad where other foreigners jailed for similar offences are held. [30] ...

Campaign to keep S. African Jews in Israel

TEL AVIV (AFP) — A campaign has been launched to raise financial troubles and stay in Israel. Fund director Herzl Katz said the South African Zionist Federation launched the drive last week because many among the 17,000 Jews in Israel from South Africa are considering leaving. "The falling rand has put people who are dependent on incomes for South Africa in a very precarious position," Mr. Katz told the Jerusalem Post newspaper. The fund, whose resources are near depletion, already hands out monthly grants to about 100 families, Mr. Katz said.

Syria ends ban on cigarette imports

DAMASCUS (AFP) - Smokers formed buge lines outside supermarkets across Syria Saturday to stock up on foreign cigarettes following a government decision to end a 30-year ban on imports. The government recently authorised the import of 42 foreign brands from the United States, Europe and Lebanon as part of efforts to liberalise the economy. The initiative also coincided with a campaign launched last month to clamp down on smuggling operations which had flourished at Syria's borders with Lebanon, Jordan and Turkey. Syria banned the import of all goods which could be produced locally when the ruling Baath Party reached in 1963. But the restrictions have been eased over the past two years amid a policy of economic reform.

'Illegal' transplant reported in Israel

TEL AVIV (AP) - An Israeli hospital's decision Saturday to transplant six organs from a dead man without notifying his family is under investigation, police said. Soroka hospital in Beersheba transplanted the heart, liver, both kidneys and both lungs of an unidentified victim of a traffic accident that occurred Thursday, southern district police spokesman Shalom Ben-Hamou said. The man, about 50, died Saturday, he said. Soroka did initiate a search for kin, Israel Radio said. But if his family was religious, they may have been unreachable as observant Jews are forbidden to use the phone on the Jewish Sabbath. Many Israelis object to transplants because most orthodox religious authorities forbid them. MEITIO!

Saliva links WTC bombing

NEW YORK (R) - Saliva from one of the World Trade Centre bombing suspects has been found on the sealing flap of an envelope containing a letter claiming responsibility for the blast, sources close to the case said this week. The sources said Nidal Ayyad.

a 25-year-old Kuwaiti-born engineer charged wiht taking part in the bombing, was matched to the "Ayyad flunked the saliva test." a source told Reuters.

The letter was received by the New York Times on March 2 claiming responsibility from a group calling itself the "Libera-non Army Fifth Battalion."

found computer equipment that had previously been linked to the ity for the explosion and said the Set an attorney to the saliva isself he did not believe the saliva Asyad to the test linked Mr. Ayyad to the efter.

"At this stage, that's contrary to our preliminary investigation," Atiq Ahmad told Reuters. The attorney said he had not been informed of the resutts of

"We don't have those reports yet," he said. "We will be de-federal prosecutors came up with answer whatever you want." Mr. Ahmad said that while he Separately, sources told Reu-ters that further arrests in the trying to disarm the warring fac-tions were still at the discussion year when the intensity of the factional fighting drove most foreign diplomats from the war-The officer, Katbalbeen Hilal.

KABUL (AFP) - The United

Bahktar said the U.N. special

Young Egyptian victim symbolises

By Eileen Alt Powell

The Associated Press

CAIRO - A three-year-old girl, near death with a nail driven into her brain by a makeshift bomb,

has become a symbol of Egyptians' fear and frustration over

Muslim extremist attacks that increasingly target ordinary people.

intensive care unit at Cairo's Al

Salaam 'nospital since June 8,

when a bomb detonated on the traffic-clossed road to the Giza

Pyramids sprayed nails and metal scraps into her father's car and

She is one of 68 Egyptians killed or wounded in the past month by three nail-packed bombs in Cairo. On Saturday, the death toll in the latest bombing

rose to seven as four victims died of wounds from a Friday night

blast near a mosque in the work-

In an atmosphere of confusion about why the ordinary Egyptian

is suddenly at risk, magazines

have written about Merit's plight

and newspapers cover her progress. Strangers have sent flowers, called to offer condolences and

Police blame the bombing campaign on Muslim radicals trying to topple Egypt's secular government and create an Islamic state.

But the blasts have gone beyond the extremists' earlier targets of Coptic Christians, police and Islamic scholars have written articles claiming the attacks could not be carried out by devout

ing-class suburb of Shubra.

other vehicles.

even money.

foreign tourists.

Food Control Centre ...

Merit Mahrous has been in an frustration at bombing campaign Muslims, and officials say the extremists are backed by Iran.

Sudan and Afghanistan:
Rifaat Al Said, a left-wing politician, told the Egyptian Al logical steps in a campaign to bring down the government.

"The third stage was to undermine tourism, aiming at economic and social instability. The last step was to sabotage the whole society and make citizens feel insecure under the present regime." he said.

Egyptians who live near Friday's bombing in Shubra sug-gested that the militants were succeeding in spreading fright -and arousing anger. "Of course there is fear," said

Mustafa Al Arabi, 22, an airconditioning repairman who helped carry the wounded to hospital after the bombing, "We are be-coming afraid to ride buses. Some people won't go out of their houses. His friend, Albert Yusef, 35, paused in the midst of repairing a car and called for summary justice: "Bring those people (the bombers) back here and let the people take care of them." At nearby Khezendar Hospit-al, Mustafa Diab sat with his 14-year-old son Hani, who was awaiting surgery for the removal of shrapnel from his back from the Friday blast.

"He was on his way to pray at the mosque," Mr. Diab said. Crowded places must have more police presence."

Across town in the suburbs of Mohandessin, Dr. Nicola Ahram newspaper that the latest Mahrous, a dentist, and his wife, bombings — after attacks on Mary George, a pharmacist, are Copts and police — were the surrounded by relatives as they keep their vigil at Merit's bedside.

> A stuffed doll with bright pink hair beside her, Ment recognises her parents' voices but responds only by wagging her finger. Dr. Mahrous fights to hold > back tears as he tells of his daughter's plight: "It's a nail, 1.2 centimetres long that entered her left ear and lodged in the right side of the brain. The doctor says extraction would cause more destruction than leaving it there." His wife worries about Merit's

> "I want my child to return to normal, to walk and play with the other children, to go back to school," she said. Dr. Mahrous seems as con> fused as many other Egyptians about the latest bombings. 'We don't know who the attackers are or why they did this," he said. "I can't believe they are Egyptians. Egyptians don't do this to each other."

> Asked what he would say to the bombers, he replied: "I would tell them that no one can help Egypt except God. We will pray to God to prevent more incidents."

Jordan Times Tel. 667171

JORDAN TIMES DAILY GUIDE AND CALENDER

MATTAN TELEVISION Tel: 77111-19 PROGRAMME TWO Quentia Durward News in French . News in Arabic And Baby Makes Five 22:26 And Baby Makes Five 21:10 The story of Hollywood 22:20 News in English 22:20 Jordan Weckly 22:43 Street Justice

PRAYER TIMES

(Sunnse) Duha Maghreb

CHURCHES

St. Mary of Nazareth Church Swellich. Tel. 810740 Assemblies of God Charch, Tel. St. Joseph Church Tel. 624590. of the Annuciation Tel.

De is Salie Church Tcl. 661757 Terrassants Church Tcl: 622366 Church of the Annunciation Tcl. Anglican Church Tcl. 652826, Tcl. an Catholic Church Tel. Armenia 771331. Armenian Orthodox Church Tel. 775261. St. Ephraim Church Tel. 771751. Amusan International Church Tel. 552526. Evangelical Lutheran Church Tel: 824328. The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-bay Saints Tcl. 823824, 654932. Church of the Nazarene Tcl. 675691.

WEATHER

Bulletin supplied by the Department of Gradual rise in temperatures will take place and winds will be north-westerly moderate. In Aqaba, winds will be northerly moderate and seas

Min Max. temi 17 / 30 23 / 38 Yesterday's high temperatures. Amman 28, Aqaba 35 Humidity readings. Amman 35 per cent. Aqaba 23 per

USEFUL TELEPHONE NUMBERS NIGHT DUTY

AMMAN: mad Al Nahawi 693925 6835RS 012232 Mohammad Imran 661912 Firas pharmacy 637055 Al Asema pharmacy . 623672 Al Salam obarmacy 636730 .. 644945 ... 637660 Yacoub pharmacy Nairouth pharmacy EMERGENCIES

Civil Defence Department 661111 Civil Defence Immediate Rescue Police 192, 621111, 637777

Rescue Police 192, 621111, 637278 Public Security Department 430321 Hotel Complaints 605800 Price Complaints 661176 Water and Sewerage Complaints

Amman Municipality

Complaints

Telephone Information 897467 787111 directory assistance) Overseas Calls . Central Amman Telephone Repairs 623101
Abdali Telephone Repairs 661101
Jordan Television 773111
Ratio Indian Radio Jordan Water Authority Jordan Electricity Authority ... 815615

RI Flight Information RJ Flight Information (8-5320) Queen Alia Intl. Airport...... 08-53200 HOSPITALS

Malhas, J. Ashman ... Pakstine, Shmeisani 669131 ... 845845 .. 667227/9 . 666127/37 . 6641648 Italian, Al-Muhajreen 777101/3 Al-Bashir, J. Ashrafich 775111/26 Amai Hospital 674155 ZAROA: Prioces Basma Hospital Greek Catholic Hospital

Process Haya Hospital (03)3(41)1 FOR THE TRAVELLER QUEEN ALIA

INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT

This information is supplied by Royal Jordanian (RJ) information department at the Oucen Alia International Airport Tel. (08)53200-5, where a should always be verified. Royal Jordanian (RJ) Flights (Terminal 1)

9645 Sanaa (RJ) 9645 New Dethi (RJ) 9939 Dameseus (RJ) 1648 Jeddah (RJ) 10:00 10:15 ... Rivadh (RJ) Csiro, Aqaba (RI) Dubni, Abu Dhahi (RI) 10:20 Damaecus (RJ) 18:30 New York, Amsterdam (RJ) 19:40 Bangkok (RJ)

66:45 Moscow (RJ) Other Flights (Terminal 2)

21:45 Dubai (EM Vienna, Lannaca (OS DEPARTURES

Royal Jordanian (RJ) Flights (Terminal 1)

12:30 Amsterdam, Chicago (RJ)
13:15 London (RJ)
13:25 Frankfurt (RJ) 13:45 Carto (RJ)
14:30 Moscow (RJ)
21:36 Dhahran (RJ)
21:36 Dubai, Kaizahi (RJ)
21:35 Bahrain, Doha (RJ)
21:45 Damaseus (RJ)
20:30 Abu Dhabi (RJ)
20:30 Abu Dhabi (RJ)

Other Flights (Terminal 2)

99:15 Beinst (ME)

..... Aden (AL)
..... Khartoum (RJ) 14:39
Bahrain, Abu Dhabi, Muscat (GF)
16:35
But (TK)
Dubai (KL) Dubai (KL)
Cairo (MS)
Dubai (EM)
Amsterdam (KL) MARKET PRICES

Bcans 440 / 140 Cucumbers (large)
Cucumbers (small) . 70 / 30 120 / 60 600 / 500 600 / 500 Marrow (large) ... Marrow (small) ... Mint 140 / 90 Onion (dry)
Orange
Pepper (hot)
Pepper (sweet) 240 / 180

ZARQA:

NHF, WHO review cooperation

AMMAN (J.T.) — Cooperation between the Noor Al Hussein Foundation (NHF) and the World Health Organisation (WHO) Sunday was discussed in a meeting at NHF headquarters between WHO Representative in Vandan Abdal Maiid Abdal Wadi Jordan Abdel Majid Abdel Hadi, and NHF President In'am Mufti. During the meeting, Dr. Abdul Hadi reconfirmed the status of the NHF Quality of Life Projects as regional model of development. He also expressed WHO's appreciation for existing cooperation with NHF.

Both sides also discussed preparations for the forthcoming in- 1989 in cooperation with WHO tercountry consultation meeting to be held in Jordan towards the end of 1993.

The meeting will centre on how best to promote the Basic Minimum Needs (BMN) approach to development, prepare regional guidelines on how to implement that approach in support of the health-for-all goal, and discuss ways of replicating the already implemented pilot projects on a wider scale within participating countries as well as regionally.

The Quality of Life Project was first initiated in Jordan by NHF in and the Ministry of Health, with the goal of introducing a dynamic, innovative development programme that would improve the total quality of life of underprivileged individuals and communities in rural, urban and densely-populated parts of Jor-

To date, the project has been implemented in twelve Jordanian communities. About 15,000 people directly and indirectly benefit from the project, which is expected to cover seven more communities by the end of 1993.

NEW HIJRA YEAR: On the eve of the new Hijra year 1414, the Ministry of Awqaf and Islamic shippers on the meaning of Hijra (commemorating Affairs Sunday holds a religious celebration at the Husseini Mosque in Amman, minister of awqaf and Mecca to Medina

the emigration of the Prophet Mohammad from

Jordan seeks to open new chapter in educational ties with Arab states

AMMAN (Petra) — Education Minister Khaled Al Omari Sunday voiced Jordan's genuine desire to open a new chapter of close cooperation with the Arab countries based on bilateral agreements in education. Acting upon directives from His Majesty King Hussein, the Jordanian government plans to encourage close cooperation based on mutual trust and amity with all Arab states, said the minister at a meeting Sunday with the cultural attaches of Arab embassies in Amman. -We plan to taunch strong ties of cooperation in all educational fields, at different levels, to be-ment the whole Arab Nation, added the minister.

In outlining Jordan's educational programmes, the minister referred to the ongoing educational development plan launched in the mid-1980s.

Dr. Omari said one of the objectives of the plan is to raise the standard and efficiency of the teachers. The plan also entails promoting the work of community colleges to cater to the need of the local community, noted the minister. Special stress is being placed on improving the status of teachers.

according to Dr. Omari. The minister listened to proposals from the cultural attaches who echoed Jordan's call for closer educational links among Arab states and the exchange of exper-

Khaled Al Omari tise, as well as promoting scientific research related to educa-

Swedish school donates ple who s $4,000 to Joffen school school in the town of Bergoskolan has donated $4,000 to the United Nations Relief and Works Agency (UNRWA) school in

Jabal Joffeh in Amman. The Swedish school transferred the amount to Sweden's Ambassador to Jordan Christian Bausch, who handed over the contribution to Paul David. officer-in-charge of UNRWA affairs, Jordan in a small ceremony held at the Swedish embas-

The school was twinned with the Jabai Joffeh school last year.

The following listings are com-piled from monthly bulletins and the daily Arabic press. Readers are advised to verify the listed

time and place with the con-

EXHIBITIONS

Exhibition of watercolours, entitled "Landscapes of Jordan," by Prof. Elmar Ditt-

Gallery, Gardens Street.

* Exhibition of paintings by artists Nawal Abdullah Kat-

French Cultural Centre.

and Dodi Tabbaa at the Exhibition of Japanese paintings and photos at the Royal Cultural Centre.

Paintings by Salem Al Dab-bagh, Himat Ali and Karim

seam at the Abdul Hameed

Shoman Foundation Gallery

Art exhibition by 26 Jordanian artists at Eshbeelia Art Gallery, 6th Circle, Amra

Lecture entitled "The Change of the Rurai Landscape in Jordan" by Dr.

Gaetano Palumbo at the Friends of Archaeology at 7

(10° a.m. - 5° p.m.)

Shopping Centre.

LECTURE

nn at the Phoenix Art

cerned institutions.

collected local contributions to assist the Joffeh school.

The contribution will be used to purchase educational aids, a public address system and other school necessities which will benefit 4,050 students.

UNRWA runs 200 schools in Jordan providing 10 years of schooling for some 152,000 boys and girls.

Sweden, which is the third largest contributor to UNRWA, contributed $26.3 million to the agency's 1992 regular budget.

WHAT'S GOING ON

FILM

☆ 1959 comedy film entitled "Operation Petticoat" at 6 p.m. at the American Centre (120 minutes).

School bus drivers must pass course -PSD

AMMAN (Petra) — The Public Security Department (PSD) Sunday advised on school buses drivers to join driver training courses which will be held at the Hashemiah Vocational Training Centre or at the Royal Automobile Club's Driver Training Centre, or else they would not be permitted to continue to work as drivers for these schools.

The PSD measures are in implementation of the regulations issued by the Interior Ministry to ensure safety for school students and teachers accompanying Drivers will receive training in protective driving, traffic rules and priorities, picking up school students and dropping them off, and helping them cross the

Required for a Post in a Gulf Country (IS Manager)

The IS manager will be responsible for managing resources, systems activities including computer planning network components, development and implementation. A sound AS/400 related experience is preferred (Hardware, System Software, Applications). At least five years of related experience is required.

Additional Required Skills:

- ☆ Resource & Project management skills. ★ Knowledge of fundamental computing/ networking concepts.
- ☆ Accounting and business background preferably in the distribution area.

If you meet the above requirements, please send your resume and supporting documents to Professional Research Manager.

> P.O.Box 9847 Amman, Jordan

1,463 Palestinians killed since start of intifada

AMMAN (Petra) — Israeli authorities last month killed 35 Palestinians, bringing the number of Palestinians killed since the start of the 1987 intifada to 1,463, according to the Foreign Minis-try's Department of Palestinian Affairs monthly report.

-report

Among those killed were children aged 18 to 16 years, said the report issued Sunday.

The siege imposed on the West Bank and Gaza Strip by Israel since late March and the curfews periodically clamped on Palestinian villages and refugee camps, was causing untoldsuffering to the local population, by depriving the Arab citizens of their basic right to earn a living.

The Israeli forces continue to use anti-tank rockets to demolish Palestinian homes suspected of being involved in the resistance, said the report.

Since the start of the intifada, the Israeli army has demolished 169 Palestinian homes in this manner in the Gaza Strip alone, the report added.

Referring to Arab-owned lands, the report said that 3.079.685 dunums in the Gaza Strip and the West Bank have been expropriated by the Israeli authorities to settle Jewish immigrants.

It noted that 186 settlements nave so far been established in the West Bank and 20 others in the Gaza Strip.

The Palestinians are either individually or collectively, being accorded inhuman treatment, with the Israeli courts passing sentences on Palestinian youth, ranging from several months to several years, said the report.

Torture is commonplace in Israeli detention camps and prisons, added the report.

In one instance, the Israeli authorities detained a 10-year-old boy and placed him in solidarity confinement for three days without food or water. The boy's condition was critical by the time he was released, charged the re-

The Israeli authorities continue to place obstacles in the way of worshippers trying to get to Jerusalem's Al Aqsa Mosque for Friday prayers, and troops continue the report continued.

Arab-American doctors' convention opens on sharing, emotional note

By Ica Wahbeh Jordan Times Staff Reporter

AMMAN - A convention of Arab-American doctors started Sunday, June 20, with the expressed desire to share knowledge with fellow physicians, be-lieving in its educational value.

The conference, the 11th International Medical Convention of the Arab American Medical Association (AAMA), opened at the Royal Cultural Centre under the patronage of His Royal Highness Crown Prince Hassan, the Regent.

The key theme of the opening speeches was the desire to benefit from the presentations and the importance of the humanitarian mission of the profession.

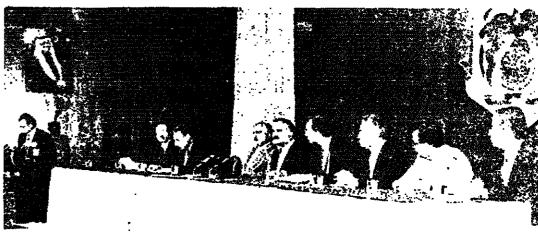

This was even more poignantly underlined by Crown Prince Hassan who had just returned from the airport after receiving the second group of Bosnian refugees in Jordan in two days and said care for these people would be welcome from any corner.

Seeing the refugees, be they Bosnian or Palestinian, leaves the most indelible mark, the Crown Prince said, adding that Jordan has decided to host them in order to help them restore their dignity and humanity.

The opening speeches of the conference, a mixture of professional pledges and emotional addresses to the motherland some had left, began with that of Yousef Hamadi, president of the AAMA and general chairman of the 11th convention.

While expressing hope that the medical presentation will be mutually beneficial and will help Jordanian doctors enrich their knowledge, he also paid tribute to the democratic path the Kingdom is following and the pride felt at being a Jordanian abroad.

Fertility specialist Suheil Muasher stressed the educational advantages that can be obtained from the convention when 150 abstracts were given and 130 scientific presentations are to be made in 14 medical domains ranging from cardiovascular diseases to pathology.

His Royal Highness Crown Prince Hassan Sunday with Arab-American and Jordanian doctors at the opening session of the 11th

International Medical Convention of the Arab-American Medical Association held in Amman (Petra photo)

the Arab-American doctors convention (Petra photo) Participants and attendees to interdisciplinarity in the interest

"The most recent diagnostic and therapeutic modalities" will be presented at the various sessions spread over the next four days, said Dr. Muasher, adding that the aim was to enrich the scientific programme of all medical branches.

Jordan Medical Association President Ishaq Maraqa, in welcoming the visitors, made an impassionate speech reminding the participants of the daily sufferings in the Israeli-occupied Arab lands and expressing hope that the con-vention will be held next year in

Minister of Health Abdul of health, and raising public ahim Malhas struck the sensi-awareness to the real challenges Rahim Malhas struck the sensitive chord of emigration and

Acknowledging the importance of such conferences, Prince Hassan said action was more important in the spread of knowledge and building bridges among each

"I hope a medical journal will be forthcoming," said the Crown Prince, suggesting a computerised medical data bank and easy access to it to the benefit of all.

He also pointed to the need for men, women and children face in urged the expatriate doctors to the region and the indivisibility of keep the link with their countryhuman rights, something, the Crown Prince stressed, that not many countries in the region can

Ending the speeches, Dr. Hamadi said that while not forgetting the country that has adopted them and provided them with knowledge, the Arab-American doctors should not forget either the countries of their origin, which they should strive to help keep abreast of the latest

Arab students' unions meeting concludes by urging universities to bridge efforts with students ming up the recommendations main topics tackled by the various by the conference, which was

AMMAN (J.T.) — Heads of students' union from Arab and Islamic countries Sunday wound up a six-day meeting here by urging university administration to help build genuine bridges of confidence with the students' movements and resort to dialogue to arrive at the aim of "the Reading a final statement sum-and decisions passed by the delegates, Waddah Khan, head of the Arab World Office of the International Islamic Federation of Students' Organisations, said Arab students' movements ought to be helped in order to flourish and unite, as a first step towards Arab unity.

working papers dealing with such questions as students' relations with university administrations and the role of the university in bringing about change in Arab and Islamic societies. The present students of the Islamic University in Gaza and tne Universal University of Afri-The statement summed up the ca were discussed as case studies needs of the modern age.

attended by Jordan, Tunisia, Sudan, Mauritania, Egypt and

The delegates said there should be a re-examination of the role of the universities in the Arab World with a view to working out a theory based on traditional

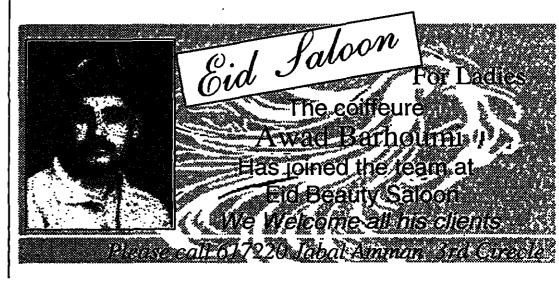

Largest Arab soap maker to expand markets

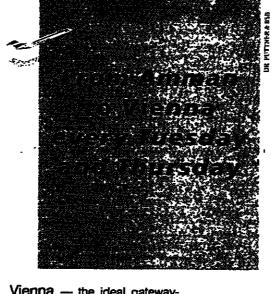

By a Jordan Times Staff Reporter

AMMAN - The Arab World's European countries and neighlargest detergent producer is bouring Arab states, ICA Manageyeing new markets for its proing Director Yehya Al Alami said ducts, which are expected to increase this year because of the substantial investment that the company has made in its production facilities.

markets which include eastern ducers.

The ICA, a public sharehold-ing company, which produces de-tergents, soaps and cosmetics among other things, is also expecting a 10 per cent growth in its Jordan's Industrial, Commer-revenue, which amounted to cial and Agricultural Company JD 27 million in 1992, Mr. Alami (ICA) is trying to add Russia and told the Jordan Times three days other republics of the former after the ICA hosted an interna-Soviet Union to the list of its tional conference for soap pro-

Vienna — the ideal gatewayfrom Middle East to East and West Europe with its convenient transfer time

dep Amman arr Vienna Tue, Thu 12.15 hrs 16.55 hrs

Austrian Airlines

Shmeisani OPPOSITE COMMODORE HOTEL

G.S.A. PETRA TRAVEL & TOURISM CO. TEL. 693845 - 684526 - 636232

...a delicious and very moral kind of immoral play."

"A Delightful Comedy' · Sunday Express On 26th, 27th and 29th, June 1993

Express Worldw

Price per person Forte Gi 1st night JD 25+, 2nd & 3rd nights JD 20/- all inclusive For Reservation, Please Call 674111 Box Office Ext. 6543

Designed by Andy Greenfield Produced by Derek Nimmo

The Entire Cast are Flown by BRITISH AIRWAYS

ROYALJORDANIAN وطلكبت فلأرونبت

Forte Grand Saloon

2000 ja COUR

ाट हासार्वह an of the shdad, pg Iraqı ooz r foreigne nle entens 1 or give

prozent ्रीक्ट विवास DITS

nes outs vea hat ubou z 👸  د متدایر iciams in no imple Sorber with o: ah ≥00≦ Baath Part el

1212 3 50800 n to use it

Chairman of the Board of Directors: MAHMOUD AL KAYED

Director General: MOHAMMAD AMAD

Editor-in-Chief: GEORGE S. HAWATMEH

Editorial and advertising offices: Jordan Press Foundation. University Road, P.O. Box 6710, Amman, Jordan.

Telephones: 667171/6, 670:-1-4

Telex: 21497 ALRAI JO Facsimile: 61242

The Jordan Times is published daily except Fridays. Subscription and adverage and available from the Jordan T[:] adv rtising department.

Lines in history

THE U.N. Security Council declaration recently that the decisions of the Iraqi-Kuwaiti boundary demarcation commission were "final" is perplexing. Had the commission members or the respected Security Council representatives read their history books right, something that is essential for responsible people, they would have discovered that they were repeating what the British commissioner general in the Gulf did in 1922.

Lt. Harold Dickson, the British military attache to the Gulf region at the time, writing his memoirs, described how the commissioner, Sir Percey Cox, summoned the rulers of the Arabian peninsula and told them -- "like naughty school children" — that "he himself would decide on the type of line of the frontier."

We would have expected the Security Council to consider that such arbitrary decisions taken by the powers of the day - whether British, American or collective — would not hold unless agreed upon by the concerned nations. Iraq, in this case, is on the record as totally opposed to the work of the commission.

Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait in 1990 and the ensuing crisis and war were the results of, among other things, Iraq's claim that Kuwait was part of its historical territory. Not that states are created, sanexed or dissolved on historical basis. Repeating the mistakes of the past is only a prescription for continued and prolonged conflict. What Sir Percey Cox was doing in the Gulf in the 1920s, mandated by one world body a the time, the League of Nations, is being repeated by the Western powers under the banner of the U.N. and the Security Council. The people of this region, be they Iraqis, Kuwaitis or whoever, yearn for secure and peaceful agreements whether on borders or on other conflicts. More than anybody else, Kuwaitis themselves will never feel safe unless Iraq and Iraqis accept the final line of border drawn between the two countries. The Security Council, by virtue of its name, is responsible for ensuring a "secure" border for Kuwait. That can only be achieved through the recognition of Iraq and the Iraqi people.

ARABIC PRESS COMMENTARIES

SAWT AL SHAAB daily Sunday struck a pessimistic note over the proceeding of the 10th round of Arab-Israeli peace negotiations, noting that Israel's obstacles are making it impossible for the peace process to achieve any tangible results. However, President Clinton's latest appointments and reshufflings of senior officers and his appointment of able personnel to deal with the negotiations process in light of his meetings with King Hussein could ease the situation a bit and might give some momentum to the peace talks, predicted the daily. The paper said that the appointments reflect Mr. Clinton's increased interest in the negotiations and his determination to involve the United States as a full partner in the process which is now almost deadlocked due to the Israeli obstacles on all four tracks. The main stumbling bloc, the paper stressed, remains Israel's decline to recognise the inalienable rights of the Palestinian people, including the right to set up an independe: . tate. At this moment, Israel is still dragging its feet over the question of implementing U.N. Security Council resolutions 242 and 338 on which the whole negotiation process hinges, added the daily. King Hussein, who has warned of the consequences of missing the present opportunity for ending the conflict, is still pursuing all his efforts to give momentum to the process which the paper said, aims at attaining a final settlement and bringing peace to the region.

A COLUMNIST in Al Ra'i Sunday warmly welcomed a decision by the Gulf Cooperation Council countries which stressed in a recent statement that they would by no means give in to pressures for lifting the embargo on dealings with firms that maintain close interests with the Jewish state. Mahmoud Al Rimawi said that Kuwait's decision to lift the embargo unilaterally can only mean that the decision was an isolated move which would repeat itself among the emirate's closest partners. The writer said that the unanimous decision taken by the council can only be described as responsible and reflecting total commitment to the pan-Arab stand. The question is not connected with the issue of whether to lift or maintain the embargo, but rather is linked to whether Israel is willing to implement U.N. resolutions and end its occupation of Arab land, continued the writer. It is regrettable to see the United States pursuing all efforts and exercising all kinds of pressures on the Arab countries to lift the embargo without pressuring the Jewish state to end its repression and occupation of Arab land. said the writer. He said that once the occupation ends and once Israel is committed to respecting the international legitimacy, the way to peace will be wide open and there can be no need for maintaining any embargo.

BETTER LATE THAN NEVER

An opportunity that should not be lost

In an article I had written for the Jordan Times on May 29 under the headline "Resolution 181 binding decision, mutually inclusive rights." I stated the following, among other matters: "The Palestinians on the other hand, did not accept the partition resolution because they considered that the United Nations had neither the right nor the jurisdiction to partition their ancestral homeland and inasmuch as they formed the great majority of the indigenous inhabitants of Pales-

There is no doubt at all that on the legal and demographic plane the Palestinian Arabs were absolutely right to reject the partition of their homeland, but from the practical and political view was this rejection wise? In retrospect, it was not. Since the partition resolution the Palestinians have undergone tragic vicissitudes, were subjected to untold misery and were scattered in the four corners of the earth. They should have by now learnt the lessons of history. Not only had the Palestinian leadership missed the opportunity of accepting the partition resolution; it had missed other previous opportunities which were offered. Had the leadership seized these opportunities. Palestinians would have now been in a much better lot and position, although admittedly those opportunities would not have fulfilled their full national

In 1929 the British authorities in Palestine proposed to estabilish a legislative council composed of twenty two members as follows: ten British to be appointed by the British high commissioner, two Jews, two Christians and eight Muslims, all to be elected in a general election. But the council had no authority to discuss the Balfour Declaration and the mandate. The grand mufti of Palestine, the late Haj Amin al Husseini, and other Palestinian leaders rejected the propusal and advised the Palestinians to al was consequently dropped and Palestine continued to be ruled by the high commissioner and the executive council whose members were all British. The British also proposed to the Arabs of Palestine to form an Arab Agency. similar to the Jewish Agency, to deal with Arab affairs, but this proposal was also rejected.

The rationale of the Arab rejection in the above-mentioned instances is that the Palestinian Arabs formed the majority of the country and could not be deprived of real democratic representation. Some Arab writers and thinkers were of the opinion that although the proposals were not satisfactory and a far cry from fulfilling Palestinian Arab national aspirations, they could nevertheless have been developed and improved by negotiations in the long term.

On May 17, 1939, the British government issued a White Paper whereby it announced its intention to limit Jewish immigration to 75,000 immigrants for the fol-lowing five years (i.e. 15,000 immigrants per year), to limit the sale of land to the Jews in certain areas of Palestine and to grant independence to Palestine within ten years. The Jews'rejected the White Paper but continued to cooperate with the British during World War II and they even formed a Jewish Batallion which was integrated in the British army. But after the war the Jews started a campaign of violence and terror, directed at the British and the Arabs alike, to force the British to withdraw the White Paper. The Palestinians, represented by the Arab Higher Committee, criticised the British poli-cy in Palestine and the grounds upon which the White Paper was based and thus did not wholly accept or reject the White Paper. Eventually, the British govern-ment withdrew the White Paper at the end of the war.

As the British government was harassed by the Jewish campaign of violence and terrorism, while President Truman was pressuring it to open the gates of Palestine for Jewish immigration, although the U.S. government had closed its doors to the Jews, the British government decided in April 1947 to refer "the question of the future government of Palestine" to the United Nations.

As is well known, the United Nations General Assembly de-cided on November 29, 1947, to partition Palestine into two states: one Arab and one Jewish. The partition resolution was passed notwithstanding the Arab opposition and the revolt of the Palestinian Arabs against its implementation. The Palestinian leadership failed at the time to realise the strength and influence of the Jews who were supported by the U.S. as well as by the Europeans and the Communist bloc of Eastern Europe, including the former Soviet Union.

Had the Palestinian leadership been endowed with realism and vision, it would have reached the conclusion that partition was inevitable and should have' accepted it. Palestinians would then have had a state comprising the West Bank and Gaza Strip and which would have been recognised by the United Nations and the international community. Now the Palestinians are being offered by Israel a mutilated, truncated, West Bank and an impoverished Gaza Strip. Can a historian say that the Palestinians had lost another opportunity by rejecting the partition resolution or concur with Aba Eban's cynical remark that the history of the Palestinians is a "history of lost opportunities?"

The Palestinians should there-fore learn from the bitter lessons of their past and seize the opportunity to gain independence in the West Bank and Gaza Strip and not as some factions of Palestinian extremists would wish, claim all Palestine or nothing. May I remind those extremists of an example in Arab-Muslim history? After liberating Muslim history? After liberating the interior part of Palestine and Jerusalem in 1187 A.D., Salah Eddin A! Ayyubi concluded a peace treaty in 1192 A.D., with King Richard the Lion Heart of England during the Third Crusade, although the west coast of Palestine including Akka (Acre) Palestine, including Akka (Acre) and Safad remained under the rule of the crusaders. It was later on, in the 13th century A.D., that the Mamiuks dealt a final blow to the crusaders. And it was after the battle of Ayn Jalut, in 1260 A.D., that the Mamluks were able to wrest all Palestine from the Tartars who had penetrated Palestine down to Gaza.

2 3 M32

i cen estel

g later de

ing Co

Transfer

BUC WS' &

हेसाडा _{विद्}

A You have

Wora 79

ورزيون والألفة

en aneur S

To work

indee

Jest 01 613

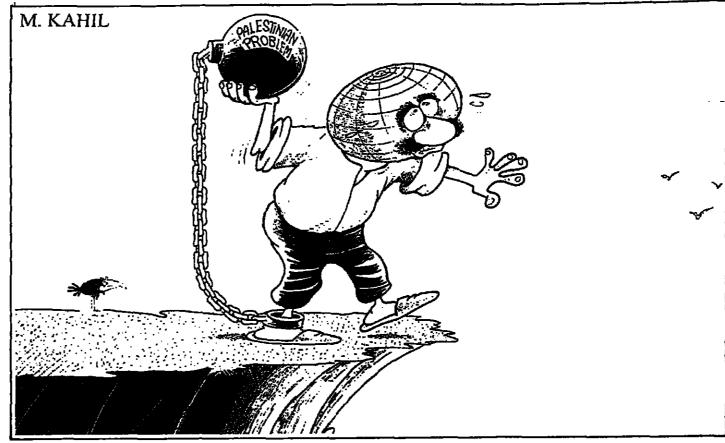

tion a her

State Chief

Sem in a gr

e is egran entrollepha, that case 🦿

Those who oppose the peace negotiations with Israel to wrest the West Bank and Gaza Strip from Israel's cruel occupation should take stock of the abovementioned history lessons so as not to lose another opportunity which may not come in hundreds

God's laws second to gun in Afghanistan

The Associated Press

KABUL, Afghanistan - When the Mujahedeen guerrillas seized Kabul from communist President Najibullah's regime in April 1992, many people feared Afghanistan would turn into a theocratic state like neighbouring Iran. The government did make a beginning: seven men were publicly hanged in a central park in Kabul for murder and robbery; women announcers were banned on television; love songs went off the air on Kabul Radio and male gynecologists became jobless because Islam forbids men from touching women who are not their wives, mothers and sisters. But rivalries within Mujahedeen factions exploded into a civil war for the control of the government and much else was forgot-

"Islam's biggest victory in Afghanistan was bringing down the communists ... now the (civil) war has become the main headache in implementing Sharia," said Abdul Qadir Imami, the deputy minister of Islamic affairs. The Sharia Islamic laws were the centrepiece of a 13-year guerrilla campaign against atheist communist regimes. But so far. strict penalties like flogging, ston-ing and chopping off hands and feet for theft and adultery have not been imposed.

"We cannot have such punishments until the government is able to provide for every citizen's security and prosperity," Mr. Im-

The government's plan to segregate educational institutions according to sexes cannot be implemented because schools and colleges have been shut for the last 13 months due to the fighting. The schools are instead being used by guerrillas as barracks.

While alcohol is banned by the Islamic religion, sales flourish in the chicken street market, a few hundred metres from secret police headquarters.

For 40,000 afghanis ($40), an average one month's salary of a government official. Kabulis can buy premium Scotch whiskey. Or, one can indulge in German beer, vodka, or Russian wine. Most customers, however, are the handful of foreigners still remaining in Afghanistan.

Cinemas were closed last year because movies would show uncovered women. Last month, two film theatres were allowed to reopen. They screened a martial arts movie featuring Bruce Lee and a Rambo movie starring

Several guerrilla fighters who man sand-bagged bunkers at street intersections showed up for the shows carrying their Kalashnikov assault rifles.

This week, a Hindi-language movie from India - great favorites in Afghanistan - entertained war-weary Kabulis who sat through the two-hour melodrama, shortened by censors who removed one hour of love scenes, songs and glimpses of actresses deemed inadequately clothed.

Much fighting since the Islamic revolution has been in and around Kabul. At least 1,300 people were killed in May alone. Tens of thousands of people died in the country in previous

As the city slowly returned to normal, the streets began to bustle with men in western and Afghan dresses and women in their pre-war smart modern clothes and lots of make-up. Kabuli women put away their traditional loose fitting dresses for western ones, make-up and high heeled shoes decades ago. Now, with fears of a strict theocratic state diminishing. women wearing eye shadow, lipstick, rouge and silk stockings. Fashionably-cut skirts and trousers are a common sight in Kabul. But some fear of mullahs — Islamic clerics or teachers - is still evident; no skin except the hands and face is visible and scarves cover heads in keeping with the Islamic tradition of hi-

Still, a few women can be seen wearing burqas, a shroud-like shapeless dress that falls from head to ankies

We only want women to be well covered. If someone wants to look like a hen trapped in a sack by wearing a burqa, that is her personal taste," Mr. Imami, the minister, said.

Last month, the government brought back women announcers on television. And male gynecologists were called back.

The government is controlled by the moderate Jamiat-I-Islami Party, which maintains it is committed to setting up a progressive Islamic state with equal rights for women and no place for cruel punishments. But not all Mujahedeen may gree with this. the hardline Hezb-I-Islami faction threatened to kill a western woman reporter for appearing in

Last month, a guerrilla from public wearing a T-shirt and slacks, considered immodest by fundamentalists.

Germany and the new world order

The armed forces in a changed security environment

in Europe has changed radically of all multilateral security agreesince the unification of Germany.

The East-West confrontation is party:

which can only be carried by a also together with other internation at two-thirds majority in parliational forces. This is the first against now over and the former antagonists are together turning their attention to disarmament, arms control and new forms, of cooperative security. At the same time, dangerous ethno-nationalistic conflicts have flared up in the south, the true causes of which are rooted in European Balkan policies of a bygone era. In other parts of the world, too, tensions have increased since the ending of the East-West polarisation, though the reasons there are spreading overpopulation, poverty and famine. Regional wars and stronger flows of refugees which create security problems of a new kind are the result. The Federal Republic of Germany must define its future role in the international security system against the background of this changed environment. Bonn's defence policy prior to unification was for decades determined by the East-West conflict. As part of NATO's deterrence strategy it was genred exclusively to protecting West Germany and securing the line running through the centre of Europe which divided the two military blocs. The Federal Government's foremost aim was to consolidate peace and at same time help overcome the division of Europe. German forces could not be deployed outside the NATO area - a restriction inherent in the Basic Law (constitution) and the country's United Germany, still closely allied to the United States, can no longer, in the opinion of Chancellor Helmut Kohl, invoke special rules when the country is called upon to play an active part within the framework of the United Nations in warding off acute danger and building a new, global security order. Basically, it is a question of Germany's involvement in establishing the regulatory framework for a new world domestic policy which, for the first time, has a real chance of materialising.

Nor can Germany deny her key role in forging a pan-European peace system. She is obliged by the constitution to serve world peace as part of a united Europe. Since, in an era of growing interdependence, every threat to peace affects more or less all nations, this constitution requirement can today, according to U.N. Secretary-General Boutros Ghali on his visit to Bonn in January, only be fulfilled within the framework of the international community. Furthermore.

joint efforts to maintain peace

BONN — The security situation have always been the focal point quire changes in the constitution - used in various combinations and

Under the peacekeeping mandate of the United Nations the Federal Republic of Germany has, within the limits imposed by her constitution, participated in various U.N. peacekeeping missions by providing civilian personnel and police, technical and logistical support as well as considerable financial assistance, and more recently by assigning unarmed military experts.

- In the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe (CSCE) Bonn itself has urged that this community of now 54 member states declare itself a "regional arrangement" with the meaning of the United Nations Charter and assume a peacekeeping role of its own

- Germany feels that the institutional framework of NATO and the North Atlantic Cooperation Council as the forum for increasing cooperation with the nations of the former Warsaw Pact should be used to develop the CSCE's security policy.

- Within the European Community, which is also aiming to form a security union and to make Western European Union its defence instrument, Germany advocates a common military policy of conflict prevention.

New mission

In this newly developing international framework the political mission of the German Bundeswehr (armed forces) must be redefined in the light of existing disarmament commitments and with a view to its specific role in the alliance. It must be a role acceptable to the German public. The classical mission of defending the country now applies to the whole of Germany since national security can be threatened on all of its borders and that is where the danger has to be met. In addition, the German armed forces are to be made available to the U.N. Security Council and the CSCE as partners of NATO and : West European Union (WEU) in safeguarding international peace and order. It is argued that, German troops should be involved in U.N. peacekeeping missions as well as in military operations to restore peace on the basis of a Security Council mandate, and that they should be available for verification duties under arms control agreements and for humanitarian and disaster relief operations.

A change in the constitution? Such assignments would repolitical issue in Germany. The urgent need for a decision is obvious, one reason being that the members of the Bundeswehr will have to be motivated for their new role.

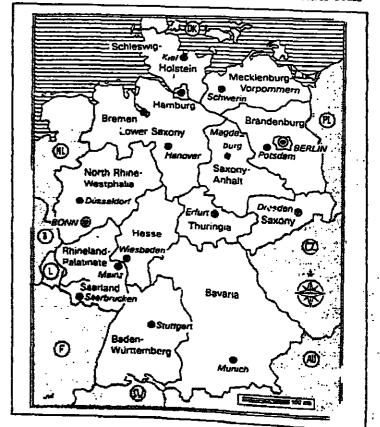

The armed forces themselves are already adjusting. Since total manpower will be restricted to 370,000 as from 1995, they have begun the task of restructuring. There will be two very different components: the "main defence forces," who will protect German territory, and the "crisis response forces", who will be ready to perform international missions under the aegis of the U.N. and the CSCE and who will be trained and equipped for the task.

New structural arrangements are also evolving at the multilateral level. NATO is to have a rapid deployment force consisting of 100,000 troops from 12 mcmber', states. A Franco-German army corps, to which Spain, Belgium and Luxembourg wish to add their contingents, is to form the basis of a European corps under the wing of WEU. Two German-American corps, each consisting of two divisions, are to be operational before the end of 1993. A German-Danish corps was established a number of years ago and a German-Dutch corps is in the pipeline.

All of these formations can be rapidly taking shape in response to the conflict in former Yugoslavia, which in strategic terms caught Europe and its allies completely unprepared. Today it is seyond doubt that only resolute international and regional cooperation can safeguard world peace. New forms of deterrence are called for which must also include the international prosecution of those accused of violating human rights.

U.N. Secretary-General Boutros Ghali has submitted his reform plans under the name of a "peace agenda", which also pro-vides for the deployment of U.N. personnel for conflict prevention purposes. The secretary-general proposes that forces be placed under the direct authority of the Security Council for enforcement operations, and that special units be established in order to stabilise peace in troubled areas. Germany supports this plan because it strengthens the world organisation's monopoly on the use of force and makes it less dependent on individual or groups of countries who seek to act on their own authority or even to use the United Nations for their own purposes. Those who wish to share peace, says Germany's Defence Minister Volker Rühe, must also be prepared to make sacrifices for peace - Inter Nationes Press

Profile: Carmen Callil

Virago was the only name to pick

HERE is a mystery here. What one to make of someone maimed as a brilliant businessoman who has, nevertheless. have metimes lost money hand over would st? Of a woman, said to be a rilliant publisher, whose colagues complain that her list is say? Of a woman with a rean treat women, especially those ho work for her in junior posions, with startling and unnecesary cruelty? Carmen Callil, minder of Virago, the publishing benomenon that celebrates its. tinians benomenon this month, is no rdinary citizen.

Twenty years on, it requires me imaginative effort to reember how marginal the Virago lea once sounded: a publishing ouse run by women, to publish omen and uncover the buried essons aces of earlier feminists, at a me when men's tastes and nce in reoccupations were still Strip sumed to be the universal stanons of ard.

would the project began around Cal-or no. kitchen table in 1973, fise er meed by overdrafts and the Arab rofits from her publicity comerating any. It published its first title ne and en-women, by Mary Chamber-Salah in — in 1975. Virago was to be ided a ne of the publishing phenomena its time and Ms. Callil was to can of come a mainstream publishing d Cn. per-star — managing director oast of Chatto and now, at 55, named Acre, global publisher at large for let the andom House. For admirers, it as late the latest in a long line of Ms.).. the alkil triumphs; for critics, she blown is been kicked upstairs. Is it the is aim al for Carmen Callil, or another in 136 by beginning?

S wer Carmen Callil? people say. I to from the want to talk about Carmen tetrate. 22. Perhaps not, but once they nt you could be there for days, peac living the drama, passion and o with ttiness. Not all seek revenge: a Sum my love her. Yes, they insist, upabo; solutely love her. Independentabove inded women such as Liz Cal-S 50 g r, the publisher, or Helena ortunn innedy, QC (Queen Cross), undred anot tell you strongly enough iat a wonderful, courageous, nerous, considerate, inspir-lonal, funny and brilliant man she is. But stop there and you miss the ners — those who can barely ak her name without risking a epless night. It's not fear of the sequences, however. It's the lving of it, the stirring up of se emotions, that rage at one-I for allowing her to do that to mena-Carmen: Callid has got awayer Intelligence, energy and a dazhe first h quite a lot, but has never zling charm. It was Swinging Lonnd. It is to escaped her demons. These

RACAS, Venezuela - Ex-

ts on South America may feel ending, but for truck driver

iso me long, painful economic descent

ge Mora, the run remains whill and slippery piace 'You still can't make it to the

of the it of each month. You have to ke miracles," Mr. Mora said, ral and nding in worn sandals outside stabiles ader-block tenement in a grim as Ger than sum, where he lives with realist A monthly wage of about $140 use of ites him better off than many.

l'life is precarious. An illness, a missed weeks of work, he iet out d, and "Till wind up in a wn pr Poverty, the plague South

shall nerica once dreamed of eradi-

Deiend ing, retains a firm grip on is sch of the continent, dashing a heration's hopes for a better pres beeroding faith in traditional ene and despair.

its of the poor.

titutions and breeding disease,

The U.N. Economic Commis-

in for Latin America, which fled the 1980s "the lost decade"

cause of economic decline, has

and hopeful signs in the last

o years: most economies are owing faster than populations

several countries are defeat-

At least one country, Chile, en seems to be making real byress in reducing the swollen

But some nations do better

st of all, wherever they live. others and the wealthy do

The expansion has not been distributed, said Victor kman, a Chilean economist.

of apward mobility are wing for the majority,

tunities are becoming few-

Onomy was booming. Its peo-

Governments ran up

were better educated and hand three children.

: temi

ies com 13. 11.6

ist als

2006 notaun:

a, Bost

class upbringing in Melbourne, Australia. Her father was a barrister, of Lebanese descent, not an easy thing to be in Thirties Australia. His passion was books, bought in job lots at auction then sifted for the treasured volumes. The rest were piled in the garden shed. Her mother's family is Irish. There were four children, some affluence, then tragedy: when Carmen was five, her father began the slow, painful process of dying from Hodgkin's disease.

When she was eight, he died. She had been sent to a Catholic boarding school during this agony, to be educated by nuns whom she has described as narrow, joyless and bent on making a lady of her. They failed, but they marked her indelibly with the sense of a vengeful God watching, waiting for her to stumble and, she says, a powerful sense of personal guilt. Escape, in the holidays, was into the garden shed, reading the discarded volumes of her dead father: biographies of obscure 19th-century English characters, forgotten novels by such writers as Henry Handel Richardson.

University offered no escape, except into books. She lived at nome, read English at the dogmatic, Leavisite English department of Melbourne University and, she says, never met anybody who wasn't Catholic. The day she graduated, aged 22, she left home and Australia. It was 1960.

If this account —her own — is accurate, there is a further mystery. So far we have a story of repression and escape, not rebellion. But by the time she was noticed in England, there was a very different Carmen Callil. She bad tasted adventure in Italy, discovered sex, freedom and parties — an adolescence postponed. On the way, she had reinvented herself. Gone was the Catholic girl from Melbourne, in her place the Australian abroad, crashing through British mores with the energy of a coiled spring. She had adopted an Australian bully-girl persona, borrowed from the tough guy Australian male — one foot on the bar and lots of swagger — for whom good manners were just another kind of Pommie bulishit.

It is a style that has lots of admirers. "She has wonderful qualities," says Helena Kennedy, that people admire in a man and find terribly frightening in a woman." And the sheer force of http:// dgiotal route route was always short through with the don and there were plenty of jobs working, implausibly, for Marks becoming a legend. In 1982 she and Spencer, she found work doing publicity in a succession of publishing houses. She helped with publicity at Ink, the Sixties weekly, and met Rosie Boycott and Marsha Rowe, two of the founders of Spare Rib. Britain's first feminist magazine. It gave Ms. Callil an idea: if they could do that in magazines, she could do it in book publishing.

Virago worked for a number of reasons. There was Ms. Callil's energy and genius for publicityand packaging. Rosie Boycott and Marsha Rowe left, but Ursula Owen's discernment and confident good humour and Harriet Spicer's calm efficiency were added. And there was an enthusiastic public, as the Virago women had hoped. Run on cheeseparing financial principles and long hours of work, Virago's turnover reached £1m in 10 years. The works of neglected writers. from Vera Brittain to Tillie Olsen, were celebrated again. Virago became a cultural force.

'Carmen," said a former em-moved into mainstream publishing when she took Virago into what was then the Chatto, Bodley Head and Cape group and became managing director of Chat-

What makes up the Callil legend? The publisher André Deutsch has described her as on a par with Allen Lane, founder of Penguin. She, too, has a large measure of personal idiosyncracy - monstrous rudeness and temper tantrums, fierce favouritism and a passion for books.

"Publishing," said Marsha Rowe, "is still run on feudal lines. it's master to serf relationships." Chatto, despite the oft-repeated notion that it was a gentleman's world, had been ruled for many decades by Nora Smallwood, one of several female tyrants in the publishing firmament. Msu. Gallil's estyler was equally tyrannical, but different.

ployee, "has no boundaries be-

Gesturing towards barefoot

children playing beside stinking

open sewers, he said the poor are fed up with governments that "promise, promise, promise, but

Attempts at economic reform

were disrupted by the impeachment of President Fernando Col-

lor de Mello, who is being tried on charges of receiving $6.5 million in graft.

President Carlos Andres Perez

of Venezuela has stepped down

after surviving two attempted coups, and faces similar charges.

Support for the coups was high

among the poor, who speak scornfully of traditional politics.

parties, courts and elected officials "are totally discredited" in Venezuela, according to Heinz Sonntag, a sociologist-economist in Caracas. According to the polls, he said, "67 per cent of the people want democracy, but 56 per cent don't want this kind of Poverty is less widespread and devastating in Venezuela than in most other South American countries, but has a painful poignancy in an oil-rich nation that

Drug use and alcoholism are said to be rampant in the slums

once hoped to eliminate it.

democracy.

Surveys indicate the traditional never deliver."

life. She behaved to her staff like an over-possessive mother, which gave her the absolute right to treat her children abominably, cuffing them round the ear if she felt like it. But if anyone outside the family attacked them, she would defend them like a lio-

Successive Chatto offices were redecorated in Ms. Callil's taste, filled with the overspill of kitsch from her home. And like a tiny, jealous mother, she was ferociously intolerant of any sign of an independent emotional existence in employees. "Beautiful young men survived better with Carmen, but it was particularly hard for women because she could not bear any reference to family or private life. Pregnancy was intolerable," said a former

Only one emotional entanglement was tolerated: Ms. Callil is mad about cats. One of the men who worked at Chatto recalled a long period of hostility in which Ms. Callil refused to talk to him for weeks. "It was only broken when my cat died. She rang up and said, 'Darling, I've heard about your cat. Are you all right? Would you like to take the afternoon off?' I said, 'No, it's OK, I'm fine.' She said, 'Are you sure? Do take the afternoon off." The next day she wasn't talking to me again. I'm sure if a child had died, she would never have offered me the afternoon off."

"All the good things about Carmen," said another former colleague, "were inseparable from the reprehensible things: her energy was marvellous and inspiring when well directed, but misdirected it was appallingly destructive." There is little neutral ground in this discussion. "She called secretaries 'thing'," said a former Callil junior. "She was dreadful to people who were weak or subordinate. You dreaded going to the loo because there was always someone in there sobbing."

At the same time, there was inspiration. She is generous with her knowledge and flatteringly indiscreet. If you survived, you could learn a lot from her. And for her favoured authors there was nothing quite like being published by her. Within 48 hours of sending a manuscript, authors could receive pages of comments that demonstrated both her gift for editing and her commitment to the text. Many, such as Angela

Carter, became close friends, for whom she could not do enough.

Others have less fond memories. One author, who had just heard that her daughter needed spinal surgery, went to see Ms. Callil about her novel. "I walked in and she said, 'Is it because you believe in God that you write such appallingly bad books?'. It was the most humiliating experience of my life. I spent three hours with her, in the course of which a secretary brought Carmen four cups of coffee. She never offered me one." The next day, the author's agent called Carmen. "How did you get on?" she asked, disingenuously. "Oh, fine, said Carmen. "I made a few suggestions and I think she 'agreed with them. It went very

It's both pathological and useful to her," said a former Chatto executive. "You could win a fight with Carmen, but it was so exhausting that you only fought if it was absolutely necessary. So mostly she got her own way: the people she wanted shafted were shafted. The people she wanted promoted were promoted. The money she wanted spent was

And the money was spent. Under Ms. Callil's stewardship, the free-spending Eighties, Chatto's modest losses soared. Authors and agents benefited, but it opened way to takeover and the rule of accountants. Chatto, minus Virago, went inde-pendent in 1987 before being taken over by the American publisher Random House. Ms. Callil always survived.

But was the energy beginning to fail? "Sometimes," said one of her favoured authors, "she looks terrific. At other times, you think, 'Who is this pathetic old lady?" She began to cultivate private pleasures — a house in France, the endless reading, music — and, at 55, began to talk of leaving Chatto.

Her new arrangement is highly paid, part-time and out of the managerial mainstream. "I think," said Liz Calder, "she is just beginning." A long-standing colleague added: "She has grappled with being alone and made peace with herself about that. But she is eaten up with getting her due. Those things feel better over time and she has had a lot of due. I am just surprised things haven't feit better enough for her"- The

Random bombs do not fit Egypt militants' strategy

The second bomb, on May 21.

was the bloodiest in the series. It killed seven people and injured

20, all Egyptians who happened to be walking along the busy street when it exploded in or

The street runs behind a police station in the centre of Cairo but the chance of hurting police was slight compared with the near-certainty of killing people on the

The third bomb, on May 27, exploded near a police check-point in the suburb of Nasr city. It njured three policemen but also

The fourth exploded in an underpass on the main road to the pyramids, killing two Egyptians in a Mercedes, injuring five

British tourists in a bus and

The fifth blew up last on Friday evening in the main street running through the poor northern district of Shubra, killing seven

Many of the injured were horribly damaged by nails blasted into their bodies with a force that peppered the metal shutters of a shop across the street from the

The bomb was placed in or near the construction site of an extension to Cairo's underground railway system, which could conceivably be interpreted as an attack on a foreign business target since the metro is being

But again, it was all but certain that Egyptians would be hurt.

The bomb went off at the busiest time of the evening, when people go shopping and stroll in the street after recovering from the deny it planted the bombs, there

The Gama'a could be lying. A splinter group, more radical than the mainstream, could be responsible. The intelligence service of a government hostile to Egypt, such as Iraq, Iran or Sudan, could be involved. Or there could be a totally new

- 6-7

-:-:

. :

a', 3°

1.5

• : :

· .- .

the Gama'a continues to long, hot summer afternoons.

are several possibilities.

built by a French company.

ounded two civilians.

wounding 15 Egyptians.

people and injuring 15.

explosion.

under a parked car.

By Paul Eedle Reuter

CAIRO - Five nail bombs that have killed and maimed innocent civilians have taken political violence in Egypt into a puzzling and frightening new phase. It is no longer clear who is fighting whom or why.

The bombs do not fit the declared strategy of the main Muslim militant group which has been waging a campaign of violence for more than a year, trying to force the collapse of the government and turn Egypt into a purist

Al Gama'a Al Islamiya (Islamic Group) has targeted police. Christians and tourists since March last year.

It has explained its aims in frequent calls and faxes to reporters: to force police to stop torture and release detainees, and to undermine the government by damaging the vital tourist indus-

The nail bombs belong to a different logic. They have killed 17 Egyptians and injured 69 — the ordinary people whose support any revolutionary group ought to want to win. They have provoked some frustration with the government but have stirred an overwhelming wave of popular disgust and anger at the militants.

Nobody has claimed responsibility for the bombs and the Gama'a specifically denied it had anything to do with the first of them. Gama'a sympathisers say the group does not target innocent Egyptians. Police say the bombs were all of the same type. All were packed with nails to cause maximum casualties and all were planted in places where ordinary Egyptians were almost certain to be hurt.

The first ripped through a crowded coffee house on central Cairo's biggest square on February 26, killing three people and injuring 20.

The Wadi Al Nil coffee house

was a favourite haunt of young tourists and a Swede and a Turk were among the dead.

But the third person killed and most of the injured were Egyptian. If tourists were the target, player in the game. The one certainty is that this is the bombers clearly were not worried about killing and injuring violence of a new order and Egyptians are frightened. local people, even during the holy

South America — a 'lost decade' and the grip of poverty

By Kevin Noblet

The Associated Press

huge deficits and debts. Inflation soared and economic stagnation set in. Austerity measures demanded by international creditors were made even more painful by the global recession of the Working-class families, even the middle class, slid into poverty. Jobs, good health care and education dried up for many of South America's 297 million citizens. Those who specialise in naming categories created a new one: the recent poor.

"It's a phenomenon witnessed across the region, but lately it's been more marked," said Emma Zevallos, a development researcher in Lima, Peru.

subversion and crime. Peru was among countries that took a big democratic step forward in the 1980s, when elected governments replaced military regimes across South America. But in the 1990s it is among those stepping back, ready to trade some democracy for action on social and economic problems. President Alberto Fujimori, an outsider elected in 1990, dissolved a congress dominated by opponents in 1992 and established virtual one-man rule with military support. He won a majority in new legislative elections and remains popular with a poor majority cheered by the capture of guerrilla leaders.

"Poverty, the plague South America once dreamed of eradicating, retains a firm grip on much of the continent, dashing a generation's hopes for a better life, eroding faith in traditional institutions and breeding disease, crime and despair."

Nowhere is the new economic olight more apparent than in Lima. Battered taxis driven by former white-collar workers bounce along the potholed streets. Once-stately apartment buildings of brick and granite have become slums, their windows broken and patched with carboard.

Slum dwellers build shanties atop garbage pits and draw water from waste-filled streams. Deadly cholera has returned from an absence of decades, spreading across South America since 1991 and killing more than 6,000 peolust 20 to 30 years ago, South merica appeared ready to move to the fronteconomic ranks. Its While hardship has aided the entrenched guerrilla movements in Peru, the society generally has not turned radical. Just the oppo-Then, in the 1970s, statesite, Ms. Zevallos said, "It's becoming more conservative. It economies slipped out favours a hard hand" against

The people want the criminal shot on the street," said Sergio Adomo, a sociologist at the University of Sao Paulo Centre for the Study of Violence. "They want him to disappear."

Brazilian police appear ready to oblige. In Sao Paulo, officers killed 1,359 suspects last year, prompting an outcry by human rights groups but little more than a collective shrug from the public. Most other South American countries have enjoyed modest growth in the 1990s, but Brazil is still in recession, crippled by triple-digit inflation. "Everybody just survives," said Luis Muniz do Santos, 39, a janitor who has lived for 17 years in a Sao Paulo shantytown.

In giant Brazil, appeals are heard for a more authoritarian approach to rising crime.

that cling to Caracas' hills, where heavily armed gangs fight over turf.
"They kill each other like Gonzalez, a dogs," said Josefina Gonzalez, a Mexican nun who works in one of the slums. "The situation just gets worse. Many affluent Venezuelans are getting through the economic crisis quite well and still make shopping trips to Miami. The contrast between their comfortable lives and the suffering of others dramatises what economists call the recovery's weakest aspect: the widening gap between the rich and poor. The growth in the last two years has been accompanied by a stunning lack of equality," Mr. Sonntag said.

NON-STOP TO

4 TIMES A WEEK

Gulf Air offers non-stop afternoon flights from Amman to Ahu Dhahi, Bahrain and Doha 4 times a week, with onward connections to Muscat and beyond.

Whichever class you travel, you'll fly in comfort and style, enjoying our traditional hospitality. Come fly with us and discover the international smile of the Gulf.

FOR MORE INFORMATION ON ROUTES AND SERVICES, CONTACT YOUR LOCAL TRAVEL AGENT OR GULF AIR ON 653613.

Russia's Hyushin outsells Airbus at Paris Air Show

Perhaps the strangest result of the Paris Air Show which ended Sunday was that the Ilyushin design bureau of Russia sold more plan is than Europe's Airbus.

Smaller, quieter and far less lavish than in years past, the 10-day show at Le Bourget Airport north of Paris was marked as - much by the recession that has eslowed orders to a trickle as by athe prominence of Russian firms, out in force to sell aircraft. And sell they did.

. . Ilyushin Wednesday said it reached an agreement to sell five .IL-96 planes fitted with Western engines to Amsterdam-based Jeasing firm Partnairs N.V. in a deal worth about $700 million. It was the first time that a Russian aircraft with Western engines had found a Western buyer, industry officials said.

Meanwhile Boeing Co., Airbus and McDonnel! Douglas Corp., the industry's main players, came up with only about one fourth of the $6 billion in orders they unwith about a 60 per cent market share, announced sales of 16 jets worth $1.2 billion cobbling together purchases from four airlines and a leasing firm.

And Western executives were not above questioning how solid

Nyushin's deal with Partnairs is.

a fairly loose arrangement, pre-

But Western engine makers,

who are not too bothered

whether their products power

U.S., European or Russian jets

as long as they get paid, are betting former Soviet firms will

Pratt and Whitney has spent

$50-$60 million fitting its engines on the Ilyushin and said the Part-

nairs deal will bring it about $280

Pratt and Whitney's parent United Technologies, said it will take more than a decade for his company's investments in the Commonwealth of Independent

fun," Mr. David said in an interview last week. "We're in busiincluding a five day-a-week-work

One of the most contentious issues is a demand by the union for a 16.45 per cent pay hike. The managementr says it cannot give more than five per cent, a limit set by the government to fight

The union also is seeking a greater say in management and hiring policy, and the reinstate-ment of about a dozen union leaders fired for past union activi-

Hyundai officials estimated that the four-hour daily walkout would cause production losses of

The Hyundai dispute comes at

1,600 cars worth $15 million a time when the nation's auto industry is showing signs of recov-

Spurred by brisk car exports by

Hyundai, South Korea's auto shipment abroad jumped more than 50 per cent in the first five ery after a three-year slump.

inflation.

"But we don't do these for George David, president of million in revenues.

States to pay off.

sented as a sale," said an official

from a competing firm.

"Our understanding is that it is Airbus, which has about a third of the Western market, sold only three A340s worth about $330 million to tiny Air Mauritius. And McDonnell Douglas, the sick man of the aerospace world, sold just one MD-11 to China Eastern Airlines. That Ilyushin sold more than Airbus or McDonnell illustrates two aspects of the aerospace in-- orders of any sort are hard to come by and Russian firms are increasingly going to compete for them.

Western aerospace executives argue the Russians will not be serious rivals for years, saying it will be hard to certify their jets in the West or persuade airlines they are reliable. Even Partnairs plans to take its first Ilvushin in a cargo model, although it says it will ultimately acquire the IL-96's 318-seat pas-

Official figures show that a total of 155 labour disputes broke out in the first two weeks of June, compared with 205 disputes reported in the first five months of

But the disputes reported so far

Noting that Hyundai has been

this year are still much fewer than those for the same period a year

hit by more labour disputes than other Korean business groups,

Mr. Kim said it was probably because of lack of trust between an almost annual event, and I think the company should take more of the blame for that." Mr.

Kim said, "It seems that Hyundai workers are too selfish, while the company does not treat workers nation's largest carmaker, labour-

management negotiations

scopened at the weekend with no solution in sight.

At Hyundai Motor Co., the

'Hyundai disputes have been management and labour.

ago, officials said.

with warm hearts.

Abu Dhabi fund boosts loans to Gulf war allies

ABU DHABI (R) - Abu Dhabi has loaned more money to Egypt and Syria in the past two years than it did to the Arab World in the previous decade, an official report says.

An Abu Dhabi Fund for Arab Economic Development (ADFAED) report obtained by Reuters Sunday said it made no loans to other countries in 199, the year Iraq invaded Kuwait. But the ADFAED resumed lending in 1991 and 1992 only to Egypt and Syria, the United Arab Emirate state's main Arab allies in the Gulf war. The figures show in approved loans worth 1.2 billion dirhams ($328 million) to Egypt and Syria over the two years.

The amount exceeded the 968 million dirhams ($264 million) loaned to 12 Arab countries in the 1980's. Egypt, Syria and six Gulf Arab states signed the Damascus declaration after the 1990-91 Gulf crisis. It envisaged a Gulf security force, with Syria and Egypt in exchange benefiting from a $10 billion fund to finance their development plans. However the security part of alliance has been shelved and no money has yet changed hands. The fund report made no mention of any connection with the Gulf crisis. It said authorised grants since the ADFAED was set up in 1972 through March 1993 reached 428 million dirhams ($116 million) but it did not name the recipients. Total loans to 13 Arab countries since it was set up through February 1993 reached 4.5 billion dirhams ($1.2 billion). It authorised laons worth 361 million dirhams ($98 million) to 19 African countries and 453 million dirhams ($123 million) to eight

African economies figure high for OAU

CAIRO (AP) - African leaders will discuss creating a system for resolving conflicts on the contentious continent at meetings starting Monday in Cairo.

Salim Ahmad Salim, secretary-general of the Organisation of African Unity (OAU) told a news conference Sunday that he believed OAU leaders would approve a new "mechanism for conflict prevention, management and resolution. It remained unclear, however, how the cash-strapped organisation of 52 African states would fund such a programme, which could involve negotiators, arbitrators and observers. Foreign ministers of the OAU are to hold five days of meetings starting Monday in advance of the annual OAU summit, which marks the 30th year of the group's founding.

Mr. Salim said he expected at least 30 African presidents and heads of state to attend the summit next week in Cairo.

Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak was to take over the rotating chairmanship of the group, Mr. Mubarak previously served as chairman in 1989-90.

Mr. Salim said in a report to the leaders that resolving conflicts in Africa was necessary because civil wars and other strife were engendering so much suffering and destruction and hampering our efforts toward socioeconomic development and recovery He added: "I do believe this is one item where decisions will be made by our leaders."

But Mr. Salim admitted that the OAU — as well as its member nations - faced severe financial difficulties. Member states contributed just $7 million toward the OAU's $24 million 1992-93 budget, Mr. Salim said. Arrears from previous years now total $62 million, he said. Meanwhile, the economies of African states continue to deteriorate, he said. He estimated Africa's external debt at $288 billion. Mr. Salim said the OAU was "trying to sensitise the international community to the magnitude of the (debt) burden facing Asked if South Africa would be invited to send an observer to the OAU if it follows through this week in setting an election date for balloting that will include the black majority, Mr. Salim said. "Clearly we will have to review the situation.

Price of U.S. budget deal is slower growth

dent Bill Clinton says his economic programme will usher in a bright new future, strengthening American competitiveness for the iong term.

In the short term, though, prospects are less cheery. Analysts estimate that the federal budget now taking shape in Congress will depress U.S. growth by half a percentage point this year and next, dulling an already lacklustre recovery. Slower growth will rob the economy of about half a million new jobs, said Jeff Faux, analyst at the liberal Washington think tank the Economic Policy Institute. If health-care reforms costing $30 billion to $100 billion are adopted, the economy would be slammed again, robbing it of even more steam.

This might seem risky business for an economy that grew at a meagre 0.8 per cent annual rate in the first quarter.

But most economists estimate that growth now has accelerated to an annual rate of about 3.0 per cent - enough to absorb the blow of higher taxes and lower government spending.

"It will dampen growth but certainly not cause recession. said Michael Levy, economist at CRT Government Securities.

And few dispute that Mr. Clinton's goal of cutting the huge federal budget deficit by $500 billion over five years is a worthy one and should improve long-

Indonesia loses much of tourism earnings

IAKARTA (R) — Indonesia. which hosts more than 2.5 million tourists a year, is getting less than half the foreign exchange it could earn from them, Antara News Agency reported Sunday. The loss of 55 per cent was because of such factors as greater use of foreign airlines to get to the country, the widespread use of foreign workers in the tourism industry and the large amount of imported products and equip-ment, it quoted H. Kodhyat of the Indonesia Tourism Study as saying. Even so the industry was worth $3.3 billion to Indonesia, making it one of the country's

Aid worth some $40 million a month was suspended in 1991 to force Mr. Moi to liberalise the economy and one-party political system. It is still withheld, despite democratic and trade reforms.

because of suspicion of financial

Kenya, now $500 million in arrears on foreign debt of $7 billion, recorded its worst economic performance last year since independence 30 years ago, gov-irregularity.

WASHINGTON (R) - Presi- term growth prospects. "A deficit in the long term is akin to eating your seed com." said Martin Regalia, Chamber of Commerce economist.

It pushes up interest rates. pushes up inflation and eats into capital, which could be more productively invested in businesses rather than government spending, he said.

Private investment generates a return of about 11 per cent - a level the government has to match to make its programmes more productive than private ones, Federal Reserve Governor Lawrence Lindsey told an economists' luncheon last week.

Much of the drag on the economy this year is due to worries over what shape the final budget will take. Businesses are delaying major hiring decisions and capital investments until they know their

"The longer it goes on, it acts as a retardant on the economy said Philadelphia Federal Reserve President Edward Boehne in an interview last Monday, The real pain will not hit until

1994 when an energy tax of 4.3 to A 7.5 cents on a gallon of petrol. corporate tax increases from 3432 around 36 per cent and high taxes for top earners and on benefits for better-off pensioners come into play.

The exact size of these taxes will depend upon how Congress resolves differences between the Senate Finance Committee and the House-passed versions of the

By next year, however, eco. nomists say the modestly growing economy will be in a stronger position to absorb the hit, and stronger export markets as Europe and Japan recover will help soften the blow.

Saudi group sets up $500m fund for Lebanon

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — A leading Saudi rabian investment group has set up a $500 million fund to help with the postwar reconstruction of Lebanon, an official of the group said Sunday.
The Dallah Al Baraka Group, a Jeddah-based conglomerate, has already decided to channel $40 million from the fund into four real estate projects and to purchase a large area of land that it will develop.

Last month, Saudi-backed Lebanese Prime Minister Rafik Hariri toured Gulf countries in a quest for help from the oil-rich region to reconstruct his country, devastated by a 15-year-civil war that ended

The official, who spoke in a telephone interview on condition of anonymity, said the Mediterranean country would need an estimated total of $123 billion for rehabilitation.

The Jeddah-based English-language Arab News Saturday quoted the chairman of the Dallah Group, Saleh Kamel, as saying the group has been investing in Lebanon since early 1990. "Arab businessmen now have faith in Lebanon's security and stability, which are the main concerns of every investor," Mr. Kame said. "If they have confidence it means the investments will succeed, and it will be a good beginning for Lebanon's reconstruction."

HOROSCOPE

FORECAST FOR MONDAY JUNE 21, 1993 By Thomas S. Pierson, Astrologer, Carroll Righter Foundation

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The longest day of the year and the Summer Solstice aspects make it a good day to steer clear of a temperamental friend who has been difficult in the past and to wind up activities that are well underway.

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19) This day is good for consulting with those in positions of prosperity for ways and means by which you can so arrange your life to have a greater abundance.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20) Be off and away to see as many experts in fields of action that intrigue you and that can add to your present well being by following their advice.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 21) A conversation with an influential person by an expert operating on your behalf could produce some very worthwhile results for your

MOON CHILDREN: (June 22 to July 21) Look for a new attitude to adopt towards a partner who is able to do something of particular benefit to your personal interests. LEO: (July 22 to August 21) Your natural ability to see the broad scope of a situation should be discarded today as you get into the actual down to earth arranging of

VIRGO: (August 22 to September 22) This is a day to get into and make appointments for amuseyour duties.

THE Daily Crossword by Diane C. Baldwin

ACROSS
1 Tip a hat
5 Underground stem
9 Mun injuid
13 Bitter drug
15 National song
16 Ma Rames
17 Whites
20 Doze

20 Dage

ments and outlets that can bring to a working level your own special capabilities.

LIBRA: (September 23 to Octobe 22) Unless you use good judgmen and exercise self-control in what you do or how you react to family at home, a tense situation could easily develope there. SCORPIO: (October 23 to November 21) You have a good day now to get into the facts and figures that you need either to make in reports yourself or to uncover in relations

SAGITTARIUS: (No: ember 22 to December 21) Early in the day you have the chance to work out an; money problems in a common sense way and with good judgment strain while later be more cautious.

C/PRICORN: (December 22 to January 20) You have a good idea for gaining some personal goal same carly but expect more problems. than you had anticipated in having it work out as you wish.

AQUARIUS: (January 21 to February 19) You now are able to devise a practical campaign of action for bringing the various articles that you desire right into your sphere of influence.

PISCES: (February 20 to March 20) A good day to start early to organise your efforts so that the personal aspects of your longings can be made a part of your regular labour disputes in S. Korea The 30,000 unionised Hyundai of Seoul, are currently engulfed · SEOUL, South Korea (AP) -President Kim Young-Sam has in labour disputes. Officials are car workers began a four-hour worried that the Hyundai disdaily walkout Wednesday to said that labour disputes at South putes may spread to other workpress their demand for higher Norea's largest automaker and pays and better work conditions,

Kim warns against spreading other plants could deal a serious blow to the nation's economy. ... Mr. Kim indicated that his four-month-old government may be forced to intervene if the disputes are prolonged. Union leaders warned that government intervention would worsen the

"I am worried that labour disputes are bursting out at a time when the economy is showing signs of recovery from a long recession," Mr. Kim told a group of business and labour leaders.

He promised his citatian goverament would by impartial in handling labov: disputes. Past military-backed governments eften used police to crack down on labour protests. Mr. Kim expressed particular concern about disputes involving containers and construction and electric equipment. Five Hyundai companies in Usica, 320 hi metres southeast

NATROB! (R) - Kenya's

opposition has created an uproar

that President Daniel Arap Moi

and his deputy stashed millions of

Ford-Kenya leader Jaramogi

Oginga Odinga told a noisy assembly that Mr. Moi and Vice President George Saitoti had salted away 800 billion shillings

($1.5 billion) — enough to more than cover Kenya's $500 million parliament with allegations

the giant Hyundai Group, the nation's second largest con-

glo: "te that produces cars.

Opposition says Kenya leader stashes cash abroad Mr. Moj's Kenya African Nation-

> the charges. The charges were the most serious to date in a row about corruption which erupted because of Western reluctance to resume lifeblood aid to Kenya untril it cleans up its act.

Mr. Odinga said the amount that Mr. Moi and Mr. Saitoti had accumulated surpassed the personal fortune of Zaire's President Mobutu Sese Seko.

Finance Minister Musalia Mr. Mobutu has been accused Mudavadi and other members of of siphoning off receipts from mineral exports to live lavishly while Zaire disintegrates. al Union (KANU) angrily denied ""If this money was brought back to the country today, most of our economic hardship would be wiped away," Mr. Odinga said in a debate on the budget. Mr. Saitoti responded to corruption allegations last week when he denied Tuesday that the government had been defrauded of millions of dollars in a scandal over bogus gold diamond sales. Kenya has little gold and no diamonds, but the opposition alleges that a Kenyan company.

compensated for exporting gold and diamonds. Mr. Saitoti, finance minister

Goldenbeg International Inc. was until a reshuffle earlier this year, insists that gold and diamonds were exported despite the fact that government statistics show no record of or any income from their sale overseas.

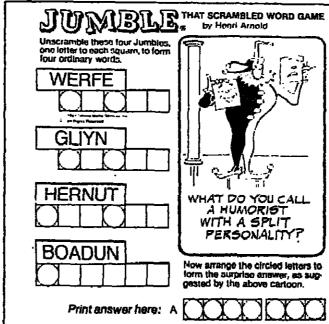

Kenya is struggling to restore Western confidence in its economic management following allegations that the KANU leadership has diverted state funds to enrich itself.

They include charges that the central bank printed billions of shillings (millions of dollars) to finance Mr. Moi's reelection campaign last December and plundered the state social security fund to finance the business plans of senior KANU officials.

Mr. Odinga said it was absurd for government officials to go on "begging missions"s to donor countries for resumed aid until leaders with large private for-tunes repatriated their foreign holdings to show confidence in

"He's never in a romantic mood because of his allergies. He's allergic to emotions!"

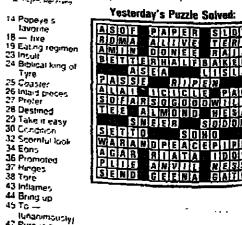

Jumbles. TWILL METAL FIASCO HANDLE Answer: What a deep-sen diver must do when he has a problem--FATHOM IT

21 Horo 22 Sawyer and keaton 23 Shicker — 23 Snicker — 24 Farmer, perhap 25 Greek pillars 28 Ergarette tips 31 Fragrant bush 32 Rans s wrap 33 Trinetable abbr 35 Whites 39 Calandar mo 40 Bese re 41 Happily 42 Haw Jietgrs Trent 45 Abstrace 45 Abogers 46 At hand 47 Duck 48 Advertising Catch phrase 51 Lauret 52 Yax 55 White: 58 Level god 59 Vice

59 Year 60 Cooking Streets in 61 Pags for Palmer 62 Clammy 25 Coaster 26 Inlaid pieces 27 Proter 53 Shine brightly Down 1 Synip 2 Hodgeondgo 3 Loving 4 Professional charge 5 Progue 6 Progue Hershoer duran inter dukes var Word of wan 10 Jarve 11 Orbarnise 12 Charang words

28 Destined 29 Take it easy 30 Condition 32 Scorniul Isol 34 Eans 36 Promoted 37 Hunges 38 Tore 43 Inflames 44 Bring up 45 To — Nanimausly 47 Pursue by tracking 48 Hit hard

14 Popeye s lavorne

51 Short trip 52 Frenchman 53 Chorr voice

54 Played the tube 56 Ms Gardner

Andy Capp

yearly debt service.

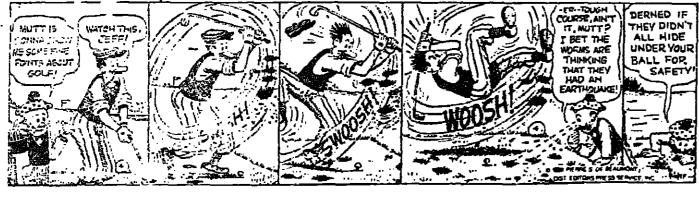

F anuts

Circle Jeff

Kuwait oilmen target Asia, U.S.

KUWAIT (R) — Kuwait will target its rising oil production at U.S. and Asian markets and will not slash prices to ensure sales, a senior industry official said Sunday.

"We will not be throwing it away," said Sheikh Ali Jaber Al Ali Al Sabah, managing director, Ali Al Savan, unanterior Ali Al Savan, unanterior Marketing, of state-owned petroleum Corporation Kuwait Petroleum Corporation

From now until the end of Prom now until the Size A F $u_{p^{N_{0}\gamma}} \subset_{G_{k,\gamma}}$

ARAB BANK
CAIRO ANNAN BANK
CAIRO ANNAN BANK
CAIRO ANNAN BANK
CAIRO ANNAN BANK
HIDDLE EAST INVESTMENT BANK
INDISTRIAL DEVELOPMENT BANK
THE HOSTING BANK
JORDAN KUNAIT BANK
JORDAN SLANIC BRANE
UNION BANK FOR SAVING & INVESTMENT
BOSSHESS BANK

JORDAN KUNAIT BARK
JORDAN KUNAIT BARK
JORDAN KUNAIT BARK
JORDAN SLARK CERRE
JORDAN SLARK CERRE
JORDAN SLARK CERRE
JORDAN SLARK CERRE
JORDAN SAVING & INVESTMENT
BUSINESS BARK
JORDAN SAVESTMENT & PIMANCE BANK
BEIT ELMAL BANK FOR SEVESTMENT
ARAB BARK FOR SEVESTMENT
ARAB BARK FOR SEVESTMENT
ARAB BARK JOR SEVESTMENT
ARAB BARK JOR SEVESTMENT
ARAB BARK JOR SEVESTMENT
ARAB BARKING COPPORATION/JORDAN
PHILADELPHIA INVESTMENT
JORDAN STREAM SEVESTMENT
JORDAN STREAM SEVESTMENT
JORDAN GULF REAL ESTATE INVESTMENT
JORDAN SUSTRIPPISES & POSIPPENTS LEASING
JORDAN STREAM JORDAN TRADING CEPTER
MACHIMANY ZOUIP. REPTING & PRINTERANCE
JORDAN PRESS FOUNDATION / ALBA'I
UNITED HIDDLE BAST & COMPOORE MOTELS
ARAB INTER. FOR INVESTMENT & EDUCATION
ATTANGENE CONTAIN MATERIAL MANUFACTURING
THE JORDAN MOSSIEM HATENIAL RAMUFACTURING
JORDAN PARENCH MERSTALL ARABUTACTURING
JORDAN PARENCALL HARDYACTURING
JORDAN BARBER & CARDBOARD FACTORIES
ARAB CHEMICAL DETERMENTS INVESTMENT
ARAB HAVESTMENT & INVESTMENT
ARAB HAVESTMENT & INVESTMENT
ARAB BAVESTMENT & INVESTMENT
ARAB SEARCHCALL INDUSTRIES
JORDAN PRECASI CONCENTION
MATIONAL STEEL INDUSTRY
BATIONAL INDUSTRIES
JORDAN PRECASI CONCENTION
MATIONAL CABRICAL INDUSTRIES
JORDAN PRECASI CONCENTION
MATIONAL CAR

eterical section

espect training

year boxes

ine myser.

armore de la

 $\{r(a), r(a)\}$

102 (10) 1405- im

bang

2 LFD/SL 2F

 $\mathbb{P}^{-\frac{1}{2}\log \frac{1}{2}}[$

21022 (5)

I conseque

 $\varepsilon^{1/257} \gtrsim$

distinctly.

the element

1. 1. 1. 1.

100 Car.

dinaedge.

2012/2015

i di selege

140000 (22) 3 (20) (2)

21, 423

. .

-1- -1

ing said

N 77 7

: ...

.

. . .

Financial

for the week.

۱

"We think that these markets have potential for growth. We have had contacts with customers in those regions who want to increase their volume and who would like to have Kuwaiti crude within their slate of crudes," Sheikh Ali said.

He named South Korea, Japan, Taiwan, Thailand, Singapore and India as potential growth markets in Asia.

"Our staff has canvassed these markets over the last three months. They have gone on leng-

AMMAN FINANCIAL MARKET MOUSING BANK CENTER APPAR - SEREISAN: TELEPHONE: 660170 / 663170 ORGAN:ISD MARKET SMARE PRICE LIST FOR SUNDAY 20

3,404,095

Jordan Times

in co-operation with

Cairo Amman Bank

Foreign Exchange Market Summary

(June 14 - June 18, 1993)

AMMAN — The dollar rallied sharply against all other major currencies last week, ending the week 3.16 per cent higher against the mark, 1.56 per cent against sterling and 3.23 per cent against the yen. While growing expectations of interest rate cuts in Germany on Thursday had a significant impact, the dollar was

After its rally to 1.6278 at the end of the previous week, the dollar maintained an impressive up-trend against most European currencies, especially the German unit, throughout the

The U.S. currency, however, traded lower Monday, hitting a new low versus the yen, but it was relatively stable against European currencies. The dollar's slide was attributed to the U.S.-Japan trade balances conflict. Observers and analysts commented that the U.S. was in favour of reducing the Japanese current account surplus through taking firmer stand on trade issues. It closed a new highs of 105.10 yen per dollar, its highest

The dollar surged sharply against the mark and most other European currencies Tuesday, but remained unchanged against the yen, as growing expectations of further interest rate cuts in Germany prompted further mark selling. The dollar was supported also as a result of traders' reaction to comments by

U.S. Treasury Secretary Lloyd Bentsen. Mr. Bentsen was quoted as saying that he saw positive signs concerning the U.S. economy. On the other hand, the U.S. May CPI figure released

Tuesday was actually slightly lower than anticipated, thus removing the possibility of a Fed tightening move in the

The dollar continued to rise against the mark Wednesday, in response to increased expectations that the Bundesbank might response to increased expectations that the bundespank might ease monetary policy further during its regular council meeting Thursday. Comments by a Bonn official that the German government considered the current dollar/mark rate a suitable

The dollar traded in narrow ranges against the mark

Thursday, but it was firmer against the yen, in response to increasing political tension in Japan as Prime Minister Kiichi Miyazawa and his cabinet were facing a no-confidence vote submitted by the opposition parties.

On Friday the dollar posted another significant rally, finishing at its highest levels for the week. The dollar was able to maintain its gains due to uncertain political situation in Japan after Japan's Prime Minister Kiichi Miyazawa dissolved the lower house of parliament, and to increased expectations that the Bundesbank will have to cut interest rates in the short term to avoid recession in Germany. In addition, the dollar got some support from comments by one of the U.S. Federal Reserve governors indicating that it is important to keep a downward

The dollar, thus ended at 1.6810 marks, its highest since

one, supported the dollar against the mark.

pressure on inflation in the U.S.

also boosted by political turmoil in Japan.

week, breaching further technical levels.

thy trips to the U.S. and Far East OPEC's target $21 a barrel. and we have seen genuine demand for Kuwaiti export crude,"

He said China would for the first shortly send officials to crude oil pruchases.

He said staggered production increases starting next month would not push prices lower provided the 11 other OPEC members abided by their agreement to roll over second quarter quotas.

Oil Minister Ali Ahmad Al Baghli earlier announced Kuwait would raise production in stages over the next three months to an eventual ceiling 30 per cent above

Output will rise gradually to reach 1.9 million barrels per day (b/d) in the course of July from 1.6 million b/d currently.

It will rise further to two million b/d during August and to 2.16 million b/d during Septem-

Sagging oil prices sank lower earlier this month when Kuwait refused to sign an OPEC accord continuing second quarter quotas, including its own 1.6 mil-lion b/d, into the third quarter. Prices are currently $3 below

The July target of 1.9 million b/d would add 300,000 to Kuwait's official assigned output quota of 1.6 million. It would add some 230,000 b/d to Kuwait's Kuwait to scout out possible 1.67 million b/d production as estimated by a Reuter survey of OPEC members' output in May.

Assuming the 11 abide by their quotas, Kuwait's 1.9 million b/d would bring OPEC's nominal output ceiling to 23.9 million. Sheikh Ali said the incremental volumes Kuwait would move to the U.S. and Asia would not depress prices in general. "We think that the price is determined by supply and demand and the collective responsibility of OPEC," Sheikh Ali said. Asked if he would cut prices, he replied: "No, we will only do that taking into consideration the our crude versus the other Kuwait was selling more than one million b/d under term contracts, roughly equally divided between Asian and Western cus-

market forces and the quality of

KPC strategy was to move additional volumes under term contracts as opposed to the spot market, he said.

ABC said planning to raise capital

MANAMA (R) — Arab Banking Corporation (ABC) intends to raise its paid-up capital by 50 per cent by offering shares to the public, a local newspaper said Saturday.

The daily Akhbar Al Khaleej said the bank would, offer shares worth $500 million in two stages to raise its paid-up capital to $1.5 billion. Bank officials were unavailable for comment.

If confirmed, the move would cut the stakes held by ABC's main shareholders - the Kuwaiti finance ministry, Libyan central bank and Abu Dhabi Investment Authority — to a total of 50 per cent from 75 per cent now.

ABC, which is traded on the Paris and Bahraini exchanges, became the first Arab bank to offer shares to investors on the open market with a $250 million issue in June 1990.

The Bahraini-based bank is the biggest international Arab bank.

Amman and Damascus enter tourism agreement

By John Halaby The Associated Press

AMMAN — Jordan and Syria have agreed to increase cooperation in tourism to take better advantage of tens of thousands of tourists visiting the two countries every year, a senior official said Sunday.

The agreement, to include Lebanon at a later stage, crowns efforts to expand economic interaction among Arabian Peninsula countries not bestowed with the oil riches of Gulf Arab states.

Jamil Jaber, legal adviser at the Ministry of Tourism and Antiquities, said the agreement was signed Thursday in Damascus by Jordan's Tourism Minister Yanal Hikmat and his Syrian counterpart, Mohammad Amin Abu

The agreement envisages setting up a joint holding company to develop tourism sites and en-countries It calls for faster and better handling of tourists crossing the Jordanian-Syrian border and increased cooperation between

The two national air carriers, Royal Jordanian and Syrian Airways, will pool advertising efforts in Europe, the United States and the Arab World.

state-run tourist transport com-

A dormant rail link between Amman and Damascus will be revitalised, Mr. Jaber said.

"Jordanian and Syrian tourists will be encouraged to visit each other's countries," Mr. Jaber said. "Jordan's Dead Sea and the hot springs at Ma'an are excellent tourism spots during the winter season, while the Mediterranean coasts of Syria and Lebanon are ideal during summer.'

to develop tourism sites and en-courage private sector operators According to Mr. Jaber, more than 620,000 people visited Jorto arrange trips covering the two dan in the first three months of this year - 550,000 Arabs. 39,000 Asians, 23,000 Euroneans, 9,000 Americans and 3,000 others.

No figures were available on visitors to Syria.

Jordan, which like Syria has numerous sites to satisfy archaeology and history buffs as well as religious-oriented tourists, expects the agreement to increase visitors at least 10 per cent, Mr. Jaber said.

Tourism is among Jordan's primary sources of foreign exchange, accounting for around $350 million in 1992.

The industry suffered heavily during the 1990-91 Gulf crisis. Hundreds of tour groups cancelled trips, and the dozens of luxurious hotels at Jordan's Red Sea port of Aqaba went idle.

Union Carbide to build huge petrochemical complex in Kuwait signed a memorandum of understanding with Union Carbide Corporation Saturday for construction of a $2.3 billion petrochemical complex.

The long-awaited project, sig-nalling a further revival of the emirate's Gulf war-damaged hydrocarbon sector, will provide Kuwait with its first major mainstream petrochemicals facility.

The official Kuwait News Agency (KUNA) reported that the document stipulated production of 650 million tonnes a year

KUWAIT (R) - Kuwait said it of ethylene, 350 tonnes of ethylene glycol and a total 450 million tonnes of the six different types of polyethylene.

Oil Minister Ali Ahmad Al Baghli said the 700 million dinar ($2.3 billion) project was expected to be completed by 1997. "A memorandum of understanding has been signed between PIC (state-owned Petrochemical Industries Company) and the American Union Carbide Corporation to establish a joint project to construct and operate the petrochemical complex in Kuwait

structed by 1997," KUNA quoted Sheikh Baghli as saying.

He added the partnership reflected Union Carbide's trust in Kuwait's economy and the stability of the political and economic situation here "especially since the project is being started when petrochemical projects are suffering poor conditions the world

The complex would entail construction of 250 factories and this would give a boost to the Kuwaiti

Saudi Arabia considering expatriate tax on banks DUBAI (R) — Saudi Arabia, Monetary Agency (SAMA) was hoping to encourage banks to hire more Saudis, is considering a six per cent surcharge on their expatriate payrolls, a Saudi newspaper said Sunday.

The London-based Ashraq Al Awsat said the Saudi Arabian seriously studying the proposed

Income from the tax on banks operating in the kingdom would go toward training Saudis in banking, the newspaper said. Local and joint venture banks in Saudi Arabia are largely dependent on expatriates, mainly from Britain, the United States, Egypt, Pakistan and India for their expert workforce.

Saudi Arabia had a population of about 17 million, including more than 3.9 million expatriates. About half of all Saudi nationals are under the age of 15.

THE PROFESSIONALS ALWAYS CHOOSE THE RELIABLE

PACKING, AIR FREIGHT FORWARDING, DOOR-to DOOR SERVICES AND DELIVERIES, CUSTOMS CLEARANCE, TICKETS AND, RESERVATIONS.

AMIN KAWAR&SONS TEL. 604676 604696 P.O.BOX 7806

JORDAN MARKET PLACE

DANZA5

INTERNATIONAL DOOR TO DOOR REMOVALS GERMAN DRIVERS - AIR - RIDDEN REMOVAL TRUCKS YOUR REGULAR LINK TO AND FROM EUROPE SPECIALISTS FOR DIPLOMATIC REMOVALS IN THE NEAR EAST

FOR DETAILED INFORMATION PLEASE CONTACT

EASTERN SERVICES

OFFICIAL DANZAS AGENT IN JORDAN TEL: 621 775 TLX: 23023 FAX: 656 270 PEACE BUILDING - JABAL LWEIBDEH AMMAN - JORDAN

Hisham International Tours

"THE RELAIABLE NAME IN JORDAN"

BECAUSE YOU HAVE TO KNOW .. WE SURVEY THE MARKETS.

Consumer research

Media research & Advertising Export & Market development

Jordanian Marketing Research Bureau

Tel. 691906 Fax: 602419

STUDIO HAIG

Professional Quality in 1 Hour Service. Develop your colour film at our shop and get:-

* JUMBO photo size 30% larger * Free enlargement 20 x 30 cm

Shmeisani - Opp. Grindlays Bank. Phone: 604042 Swefieh tel: 823891

.... tare telle plane (L. 1. 1.) 4 RENT

Super deluxe villa. Unfurnished, 4 bedrooms,

يون ولا المعافية والمراس

3 bathrooms, Um Utheina. For further details, please call: Abdoun Real Estate Tel.: 810605/810609 Fax: 810520

We try harder.

28 699-420

(8) days (7) nights Antalya $ 800 H/B

⇒ Turkish Riviera $800 H/B . ☆ All in 5 star INT'L HTLS

Book now & Join

our classy summer trips

Outgoing Tours Hotel reservations at International & Luxury Hotels in Turkey, Cyprus & Egypt

Specialists in

Tailor-made

Our first class services & moderate prices make sense for leisure & business travellers Tel.: 698180/698181, Fax 689307

CHEN'S CHINESE RESTAURANT

Mecca Street, Yarmouk Engineers' Housing Estate, near Kilo Supermarket Mongolian Barbeque for Lunch Friday only Tel: 818214

Come and taste our specialities Open daily 12:00 - 3:30

6:30 - Midnight

CHINA HOUSE Restaurant

Open daily for lunch & dinner Take away service Ministry of Trade & Industrial Pd. Tel. 693804

Open 12:30-3:30 & 8:00-11:30 daily Take away is available Wadi Sagra Road near Philadelphia Hotel Tel. 651922, Amman Once Tasted Always Loved p.m.

7:00 — Midnight

Tel. 638968

open for lunch & dinner Abdoun / Near Orthodoxy Club Circle - Jordan Supermarket Building , 2nd Floor Tel: 824677

Kashmer Restaurant FIRST CLASS INDIAN restaurant Special Executive Luncheons Take away service available Open Daily 12.30-3.30 pm 7.30-11.30 pm fter the Philadelphia Hotel Towards 3rd circle Tel:659519 659520

Kitchenette in every room...! "Satellite T.V. Reception" DAROTEL

The First Class Hotel in

Amman that has a

عاراوتيل Amman - Tel. 668193 P.O.Box 9403 - Fax 602434 Telex 23888 DAROTL JO

ideal Residence For Expatriates and Businessmen

March 1992, and 109.75 yen, whereas sterling ended at $1.4982. ential Bank of Jordan Exchange Rate Bulletin Date: 20/6/1993 Offer Bid U.S. Dollar 0.6950 0.6970 1.0448 Serling. Pound 1.0396 0.4152 Deutsche Mark 0.4131 0.4648 wis Franc 0.4625 0.1236 French Franc 0.1230 apanese Yen 0.6369 0.6337 0.3699 Duich Guilder 0.3651 0.0925 0.0930 Swedish Krona 0.0458 Italian Lire 0.0456 0.02022 Relgian Franc 0.02012

Rebel Azeri commander rescues army, ready for leadership role

BAKU, Azerbaijan (AP) — Re- Aliev, Azerbaijan's former Combel leader Surat Huseynov Sunday went to the aid of government troops near Nagorno-Karabakh and held open the possibility of taking power in the embattled nation of Azerbaijan, officials said.

Mr. Huseynov's suggestion and his crucial help in Azerbaijan's battle against Armenian forces testified to his growing strength in the government crisis that has gripped the former Soviet nation of seven million people.

Azerbaijan's power struggle was the latest crisis to rock the Caucasus region, which since 1988 has been torn by warfare between Armenians of Nagorno-Karabakh and Azerbaijan, separatist conflicts in Georgia, and ethnic conflicts along Russia's southern border between the Black and Caspian Seas.

Mr. Huseynov was demoted by President Abulfaz Elcibey this year in a dispute over conducting the war over Nagorno-Karabakh, whose ethnic Armenian population has been fighting for independence from Azerbaijan.

Since launching his rebellion two weeks ago, Mr. Huseynov has seized about half of Azerbaijan's land, forced a government resignation and driven Mr. Elcibey from the capital in fear

That left power in the hands of parliament Speaker Geidar

SARAJEVO (Agencies) — Rival

forces in Bosnia fought for territory Sunday as European Community (EC) ministers prepared to face failure and accept the Fighting between Muslims,

Croats and Serbs, oblivious of a truce their commanders signed

last Tuesday, flared across a belt

of central Bosnia and artillery and infantry battles for disputed towns drove refugees from their dia's former battlefield rivals will jointly control the powerful army

and police force under a power-sharing deal agreed last Friday, a senior government official said

The official said the formerly

Despite the fighting, the U.N.

republic's division into ethnic mini-states.

munist boss who has made a comeback in the crisis.

Mr. Aliev has been negotiating with Mr. Elcibey and Mr. Husevnov. But the rebel commander has stuck by his threat to storm Baku unless Mr. Elcibey formally resigns. He estimated that up to 5,000 fighters sit within 78 kilometres of Baku.

The rebel forces also hold the Azerbaijani territory closest to Nagorno-Karabakh. They are based at Gyandzha, about 80 kilometres north of the battle front. Baku is about 250 kilometres away.

Armenian forces have been nelling Azerbaijani army troops in the Agdam region just east of Nagorno-Karabakh. Government sources confirmed Sunday that the army bowed to Mr. Huseynov in recent days and asked him to reinforce their troops and weapons, and he

The reinforcements enabled the army Saturday and Sunday to push Nagorno-Karabakh forces within 6 kilometres back from the region and to eject them from the village Bui Ahmedli, captured earlier this week, said the sources on condition they not be identi-

There was no confirmation from the Armenian or Nagorno-Karabakh sides. Mr. Huseynov's cooperation

Bosnia rivals fight for territory

judged it was safe to reopen

But in a setback for the relief

Sarajevo airport to relief flights effort, Bosnian Serbs at the border with Serbia proper halted the first U.N. aid convoy for a month

for the besieged Muslim enclave

Belgrade, was due to reach

Gorazde Monday with 80 tonnes of food and medicine for about

70,000 trapped and starving local people and refugees. Bosnian Serbs said they had no warning

ernment that we would up to three months while the newly elected National Assembly writes

The Finance Ministry is expected to play an increasingly important role when hundreds of

The convoy, which set out from

after a six-day closure.

Gorazde.

Cambodian parties to share

defence and interior posts

with the military accompanied reports by Western diplomats that he had demanded to be made prime minister and head of secur-

A rebel spokesman in Gyandzha, Shadman Huseynov, flatly denied this in a telephone interview with the Associated Press. 'All he wants is to clear Azerbaijan of Armenians," Mr.

Huseynov said. But the spokesman added that after the crisis, "if the people want him, then they could vote for him in a referendum."

Mr. Aliev and other officials might oppose a referendum, which also must be approved by the country's unwieldly parlia-

Mr. Elcibey, holed up at his hometown of Ordubat in the remote Nakhichevan region, told reporters Saturday that he was still president and never transferred authority to Mr. Aliev, who claimed power on television Fri-

"I will continue my job as head of state from Nakhichevan," Mr. Elecibey said. "Aliev on television took power himself, and that is not right. I am head of state and whoever says that I took the wrong step (by leaving) is mis-

Mr. Aliev denied accusations that he sought to seize power.
"What do I have to do when the head of state leaves in an ie convoy was due.

1. forces played down a

at by the commander of Bos-

n government forces in the rthern Muslim haven of Tuzla, azim Sadic, to use chlorine to

He claimed he had enough of attack Serbs if the onslaught

the chemical to "neutralise all living forces in almost all of Europe."

U.N. military sources said

Muslims did not have the military capability to deliver chemical would be commander in chief of

The official said General Tea

Banh, the current defence minister, would become vice-minister of lefe ic, and his deputy General Ke Aim Yan would be chair-

forces in the transition

against Gorazde continued.

unknown direction without saving a word to anyone?" he told the ITAR-TASS News Mr. Huseynov stuck to his threat to march on Baku if Mr. Elcibey does not resign. "To tell you the truth, I don't want to go to Baku if it means fighting other Azeris," said Elchin Askerov, a rebel commander at Marasa. "But Elcibey hasn't resigned, he only left. We will do what Surat and the people

The rebels took over two more villages west of Baku overnight, and now sit within about 40 miles (65 kilometres) of the city to the northwest and 60 miles (95 kilometres) to the southwest. Commander Askerov said his men had advanced to the town of about 10,000 people 1 te Friday, befriending governm nt troops along the way. The entered Marasa without firin deposed the pro-Elc

"We talked with y mayor. : troops they put their arms don and let us pass," Commande Askerov

The oil weekly Nefte Compass in London reported Thursday that oil companies British Pet-roleum, AMOCO, McL rmott and Penzoil were pulling all but skeleton staffs out of Baku.

The companies are working on developing potentially vast oil reserves in the Caspian Sea.

Pyongyang evokes nuclear-free Korea

without NPT TOKYO (AFP) - North Korean Vice Foreign Minister Kang Sok-

Iu has said the Korean peninsula can be guaranteed free of nuclear weapons without Pyongyang's return to the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty (NPT). He said Friday that the sugges tion was made at North Korea's recent talks with the United States which led to the suspension of its withdrawal from the NPT. the Korean Central News Agency (KCNA) reported Saturday.

"At the talks, we indicated a realistic and most reasonable way of resolving the nuclear prob-lem," Mr. Kang was quoted as saying by the official news agency monitored here.

The proposed method could guarantee the prevention of nuclear proliferation in conformity with the conditions of our country and the surrounding areas without DPRK (North Korea) returning to the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty," was quoted as saying. North Korea decided in March to quit the NPT as the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) stepped up demands to inspect two facilities suspected of concealing materials for making nuclear bombs.

But Mr. Kang said that the possibility of IAEA inspections of North Korean facilities while Pyongyang remains in the NPT is a "serious matter since the partiality of the IAEA has become

The North Korean ambassador in Vienna said earlier this month Pyongvang was studying ways to prove the "transparency" of its nuclear power development, analysts here said.

Meanwhile, a Seoul govern-ment official said Sunday South Korea will not allow full cooperation with North Korea until Pyongyang allows inspections of its nuclear facilities by the IAEA.

The Yonhap News Agency quoted the official as saying Pyongyang's June 11 suspension of its decision to withdraw from the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty did not go far enough.

ers, and it was difficult to see how the two could work together again after Mr. Kuchma's bitter remarks.

On the other hand, it was difficult to speculate how market reforms would develop without

Mr. Kuchma. Mr. Kuchma, a reluctant convert to politics who has little time for the niceties of political life, accused Mr. Kravchuk of betrayal by issuing a decree placing himself at the head of the govern-president," he told industrialists in his native city of Dnipropetrovsk. "Just what am I toTabachnik, told Reuters: "I be lieve Kuchma will not alter his position and will not be willing to serve at the head of such committee. If the committee i maintained, he will simply take place Tuesday in parliament whose members have twice persuaded him to withdraw threats to resign. Parliament, although dominated by Soviet-era conservatives, could again rally to Mr. Kuchma's defence and reject his resignation, creating a stale-

Alternatively, it could throw out Mr. Kravchuk's decree, cutting the ground from under the president and deepening the cri-

Fathers can Thyarcheli is controlled by

NEW YORK (AP) — A new

S. Korean Zoo animals expected

SEOUL (R) - It's not just South Korean bureaucrats that are suf-fering from President Kim Young-Sam's call to tighten belts to restore the nation's economic vitality. Zoo animals are sharing the pain. Senior officials get a taste of what Mr. Kim means when those invited to the presidential dining room for a working lunch find themselves munching noodles instead of the more usual prime beef. Hungry humans can top up later. Not so the animals at a zoo in the central city of Taegu. Asked why 29 million won ($36,000) had been slashed from the animals' food budget for this year, a city official said the cuts were part of the government's austerity campaign, the

Nearly 200 die in Bangladesh floods jects were battered by gales, and

DHAKA (R) - Floods wrought havoc across Bangladesh, with the death toll Sunday reported close to 200.

Around a million people were stranded without relief supplies in the worst hit areas. An official, in northeastern district of Sylhet said tens of thousands of villagers there were marooned without food or drinking water, many of them perched on the roofs of their submerged homes.

"We don't have exact figures of casualties or property damage but' I can tell you they will be high," he said.

The flooding caused by heavy rain and swollen rivers washing down from the Himalayas has affected more than three million people across the country. Thousands of families have been evacuated by government and voluntary agencies.
Relief workers said around 200 people were known or presumed to be dead, many of them drowned after boats capsized. Most of the deaths were reported from the northeast, which by Sunday was still cut off by road and rail. Railway sources said floodwater washed away nearly 65 metres of tracks at Laskarpur and Shaistaganj and inundated lines at other places.

Road links between Chittagong Port and the Chittagong Hill Tracts have been cut off since Friday when flash floods washed away four small bridges. Landslides blocked the partly inundated highway to Cox's Bazar

Along the coast, fisheries pro-agriculture officials said more than 300,000 acres (120,000 hectares) of rice and jute crops had been damaged. "If the floods do not start receding in two days the crops will all rot in the field," one official told reporters.

Meteorological officials said over 200 mm of rainfall had been recorded in the 24 hours until Sunday morning in some areas and rivers were still on the rise.

They expect more showers over the next two days. Low-lying suburbs of the capital Dhaka were under water.

The government has de loyed more than 100 medical teams to fight diarrhoea and other diseases in the flooded areas, health offi-

Ukrainian premier confronts president

KIEV (R) - Prime Minister Leonid Kuchma has taken off his gloves in a showdown over who runs the Ukraine, accusing President Leonid Kravchuk of robbing him of his job in an outburst that plunged the country further into uncertainty.

The comments by the industrialist prime minister, who is regarded as the architect of Ukraine's post-Soviet market reforms, came in a speech Saturday in which he pledged for the third time in a month to resign.

The televised speech shattered what had looked like an emerging onsensus in Ukrainian politics after coal miners suspended a 12-day strike and parliament agreed to hold a referendum of confidence in the president and parliament.

It was the prime minister's first open attack on the president, a one-time Communist ideologist, although the two have battled for a month over constitutional pow-ment. He rejected Mr. Kravchuk's order putting him in charge of economic reform as head of an "extraordinary com-

"I understand that the prime minister is no more because the government is headed by the day if all my powers of govern-His spokesman, Dmitri halt.

ment have been taken away?"

leave. The next act in the drama will Resolution of the turmoil had appeared on the way after the end of the miners' strike which had threatened to bring Ukraine's heavy industry to a

Russian troops on alert in north Caucasus

the region, officials said Satur-

Nationalities warned that "a real threat of a large-scale conflict with inevitable casualties has emerged" in the two republics, ITAR-TASS News Agency re-

It said the peacekeepers were having problems resolving a refugee crisis, disarming illegal groups and controlling crime and said tensions were being fueled by "corrupted officials and local

The committee, warning of potential "mass disorders," asked neighbouring Georgia and Chechnya to block roads and other channels used for supplying weaponry to the region and warned Russia had "sufficient strength" to quell unrest there.

a state of emergency last autumn and Russian peacekeeping troops deployed in the region following bloody clashes between Ossetians populations. Meanwhile, Russia completed an evacuation operation from the besieged Abkhazian city of Tkvarcheli Saturday as some 700 refugees, most of them ethnic Russians, arrived at Pitsunda on the Black Sea, news agencies

Abkhazian troops but has been under siege by Georgian forces for more than six months. The two sides have been at war since last August following a declaration of sovereignty by Abkhazia. one of two autonomous republics in Georgia. The conflict has cost hundreds of lives. Sergei Shoigu, chairman of the Russian State Committee for Emergency Situations which organised the evacuation, said it had shown ethnic Russians stranded in conflict zones around the former Soviet Union that Moscow "will not leave them in trouble." He said the operation, begun ast week, had not gone smoothly. Two attacks were made on the convoy but there were no casualties, he said. Russia urged Georgia Saturday to grant real autonomy to Abkhazia and a second trouble-spot. South Ossetia. ITAR-TASS News Agency reported.

Japan ruling party rebel Hata could be next premier TOKYO (R) - Japanese ruling Prominent pundit Minoru snatch power. more seats." "But it depends on how serious party rebel Tsutomu Hata was being tipped Sunday to take over as prime minister if, as seems probable, the July 18 snap election gives a majority to new centre-right forces.

The former finance minister, whose decision to back an opposition no-confidence motion brought down Prime Minister Kiichi Miyazawa's government Friday, promised on television to unveil his strategy Wednesday.

Widespread reports said he would take that opportunity to announce his formal defection from the long-ruling Liberal Democratic Party (LDP) and formation of a rival party committed to reforming Japan's corrupt political system.

'We have no intention of throwing politics into confusion ...," said Mr. Hata, who heads a faction of 35 pro-reform LDP lawmakers in the lower house.

He added, however: "It's important to put an end to one party rule. That's a part of political reform which could create forced on Mr. Miyazawa would mark the end of nearly 38 years of unbroken LDP rule.

largest party. It will be difficult for the LDP to win more than 40 per cent of the seats, that's about 200," he He predicted that Mr. Hata's

Mr. Morita said Mr. Hata, 57, over as prime minister.

and other non-LDP parties to new party would win about 100 seats and, along with other moderate anti-LDP groups including perhaps some right-wing Socialists, could form a coalition gov-

would then be favourite to take Mr. Hata said his group would consider joining the Socialists.

could then have seen Socialist Party Chairman Sadao Yamahana react with even more warmth to the prospect of post-election cooperation with Mr. Hata.

"It is important to form a coalition government," said Mr. Yamahana, whose thunderous denunciation of Mr. Miyazawa and the LDP's "money politics" set the stage for Friday's dimactic government defeat in parliament. "It will depend on how many portant (cabinet) posts simply because (the Socialist Party) has

The prospect of any role in government must seem unbearably sweet to a party which last servative ever since, the Socialists refused to change hardline policies - such as unconditional support for Stalinist North Korea to make themselves a credible alternative.

Party leaders have tried to upnance would be enough to prompt a change of heart.

"Political reform will be the main theme in the general election," Miyazawa aide Koichi Kato said Sunday.

Communist government party millions of dollars of foreign aid is man of the chiefs of staff. and the Royalist FUNCINPEC On June 10, the military forces pumped into the war-ravaged of three of the aur factions which signed the 1991 Paris peace pact opposition, which won last month's U.N.-organised election. The official, who asked not to agreed to merge into a new would share the key defence and be named, said Mr. Hun Sen's interior ministries. Fin People's Party would national army. Diplomats say the government controls 45,000 regulars and The ruling party would surren-der control of foreign affairs and keep control of the Information 100,000 provincial militiamen, plus the $40,000-strong police force. The fighters of the Royalist No FUNCINPEC officials finance to the royalists, the official told Reuters. were available for comment on Incumbent Prime Minister Hun Sen and FUNCINPEC leader the report. Mr. Hun Sen and Prince faction and the smaller Khmer Ranariddh, the son of Prince People's National Liberation a constitution.

Author Sir William Golding dies

Norodom Sihanouk, also agreed that the neutral head of state

LONDON (AP) - Nobel prize-winning author Sir William Golding, whose classic novel Lord Of The Flies won acclaim for its chilling story of the descent of marooned schoolboys into barbarism. died Saturday. He was 81. Golding's first success was his greatest, and he fled from the acclaim to the isolation of

Prince Norodom Ranariddh — enemies through 13 years of civil war - agreed Friday to serve as a

Mathew Evans, chairman of Golding's publishers Faber And Faber said the likely cause of death was a heart attack. Golding had been in good health. "It happened very suddenly." said Golding's son-in-law Terrell Carver, who was with his native Cornwall.

other family members at Golding's home at Perranarworthal in Cornwall. Golding's Nobel Prize in Literature, won in 1983, was tainted by controversy, when a member of the academy, Swedish writer Artur Lundkvist, publicly declared that

Golding was of "no importance whatsoever" internationally. Golding was forgiving: "He was probably irritated into it by having journalists down his neck," he told the Associated Press at the time. Golding, who once said his biggest affliction was "the inability to write poetry," was knighted five years ago for his contribution to English litera-

Looking like dour prophet with wreath of white hair and beard. Golding was deeply pessimistic about the human condition. He once described the theme of Lord Of The Flies, as "grief, sheer grief, grief, grief, grief."

The Nobel Prize citation said his works had a universality "illuminate the human condition in the world today."

Lord Of The Flies, an atomic-age parable of boys struggling for survival, was an instant hit which achieved cult status on many campuses in the "It has gone on selling since knows how many copies it's sold -- 10 million, 15 million?" Golding told the Guardian newspaper in a 1991 interview. Golding was born in the Cornish village of St. Columb major influence on his own work.

In 1940, Golding joined the Royal Navy, serving as a lieutenant aboard cruisers and enduring love of the sea. Bismarck and at the D-Day invasion, experiences that con-about 10,000.

World WAr II was the turning point for me. I began to see what people were capable of doing," he once said. Golding suffered a string of lished in 1954. It was filmed in 1963. Eleven more novels followed, including Rights Of Passage (1980), about life aboard a 19th century ship sailing from England to Australia. It won the Booker prestigious literary prizes. Golding deplored the attention the Nobel Prize brought

"Salisbury was a place to could nip down in an hour and, as it were, have lunch on my

Golding's work as "peculiarly timeless" and said it provides a powerful comment on human nature. social change or current mores but he wrote about the nature of good and evil and the em-

He is survived by his wife Ann. a son and a daughter.

Parts of both North Ossetia and Ingushetia were placed under

MOSCOW (AFP) - Russian peacekeeping troops in the north Caucasus republics of North Ossetia and Ingushetia have been placed on high alert due to growing risks of fresh armed clashes in ported.

The State Committee on

mafīa."

and Ingushetians.

The two sides dispute a number of villages and ancestral homelands that were radically altered when Stalin redrew borders in the region and displaced local

The completion of the operation marked the end of a temporary ceasefire between Georgian and Abkhazian forces brokered by Russia to ensure safe passage for a humanitarian convoy evacuating the refugees, ITAR-tasted power in a short-lived coalition administration 45 years While Japan has voted con-

date its programme, only to see most reforms blocked by ideologues on key committees. Analysts debated whether the sudden collapse of LDP domi-

The word "reform" is suddenly on everybody's lips.

"Anti-LDP slogans will no longer work as viable policies," he added.

UAE gives WHO $1 million for health prize fund

ABU DHABI (R) - The United Arab Emirates (UAE) has granted the World Health Organical nisation $1 million to set up an annual international prize, newspapers said Sunday. They quoted UAE Health Minister Ahmad Ibn Said Al Badi as saying revenue generated from the WHO. managed $1 million fund will go every year to individuals or organisations who make significant contributions in the field of a

Dutch team diving for treasure

LONDON (AFP) - A team of Dutch divers is trying to salvage gold bullion worth at least £20 million ($30 million) from an 18th century wreck off the Nether lands coast, newspapers re-ported. Working with the Lloyd's insurance company of London, the divers have already retrieved artifacts from the British frigate Lutine, which sank in a gale in 1799 while carrying an army payroll in gold. And Jan Duif, head of the team, told the Sunday Times that the divers had made "some very interesting discoveries", but declined to say whether they had found the bullion. "I cannot comment on what has been found until we file our report to Lloyd's," Duif told the Sunday Telegraph. Other divers have retrieved gold worth £200,000 in the past 200 years and, notably in 1859, the Lutine's bell. Today the bell is an integral part of the Lloyd's institution, ringing once for bad news, twice for good. Lloyd's is said to have made its international reputation by paving an property of the said by paying up promptly after the Lutine went down. Accordingly, whatever is salvaged belongs to Lloyd's under British law. But the insurers have agreed to give the divers about 70 per cent of the in care 3

e novelty

gerena) et

:an Ambie

- w itali-rekt⊓⊆

Grad, the max

्या शं कोश ८

il z castrou:

ें all and sh

Pom left he∹

Dept. of

Mark And Christ.

WALRS

u vkqa

Al Lasi Pacc

GC

British 'Bobbies' could carry guns, commander says

LONDON (R) - British police, renowned for not having to resort to armed force except in the most extreme circumstances, could carry guns routinely within 10 years, the country's top officer said in an interview published Sunday, Metropolitan Police Commissioner Paul Condon told the Independent On Sunday American newspaper that police use of guns would be a "creeping process," in response to growing numbers of the back mach armed criminals." There will be shake more and more specialist units in malova more and more officers on and more and more officers on the series of th the streets who will have to be armed," he said. "I don't seek it but ...it could happen within 10 to 20 years. I do not believe it is inevitable, but it is probable."

recognise newborns by touch — study

study finds that most fathers can recognise their newborn babies just by stroking the backs of the infants' hands. About 61 per cent of blindfolded dads chose correctly from a group of three babies, much better than the 33 per cent one would expect from pure guessing. Similar results for mothers were reported last year. But the mothers were also shown to recognise their infants by stroking the cheek, whereas fathers in the new study could not, researchers said. The difference might arise because fathers tend to touch their infants' faces far less than mothers do but frequently touch hands during play, said psychologist Marsha Kaitz. The study has been accepted for publication in the international journal Infant Behaviour and Development, she said in a telephone interview. Tiffany Field, director of the Touch Research Institute at the University of Miami, said it made sense that fathers shared recognition ability with mothers. But the fact that they showed it with an average of only 6.8 hours of prior direct exposure to the child is "pretty amazing," she said.

to tighten belts

Korea Herald reported.

Sir William Golding

the day it was published. God

Minor, southern England, on Sept. 19, 1911. At Oxford, he discovered Anglo-Saxon literature which he later acknowledged as a destroyers and developing an He was present at the sinking of the German battleship firmed the pessimistic view of

Front (KPNLF) together number human brutality so evident in Lord Of The Flies.

rejections before Lord Of The Flies, his first work, was pub-

Prize, one of Britain's most which London media types back. People were crawling over the hedge," he told the Guardian. "I became a tourist object."

In a tribute Saturday, author

Malcolm Bradbury described

"Most writers write about

ergence of human beings from Neanderthal man," said BradMorita, speaking in another televised Sunday morning debate, predicted that the elections

He said the conservative, probusiness LDP could win only about 200 seats in the new 511seat lower house, against its present 274, and was destined to pass into opposition, albeit as the

the current main opposition force,

the Socialist Party can become, he said, stressing it must abandon hard-left policies rendered obsolete by the end of the cold war. Socialist Party Secretary General Hirotaka Akamatsu. appearing on the same programme, made no commitment on changing his party's platform but told Mr. Hata: "We are in accord on political reforms." Viewers switching channels seats the Hata faction can win in the general elections," he said. "But we wouldn't demand im-

Germany clinch title with win over England

DETROIT (AFP) - World championships Germany beat England 2-1 Saturday to clinch the four-nation U.S. Cup '93 and lividual the rour-name as firm the and favourites for next year's World

More than 62,000 spectators cheered an impressive perform-Ving ance by the Germans, who have got stronger and stronger as the ten-day tournament has prog-

For England's beleagured man-ager Graham Taylor, the tourna-ment only confirmed what nearly from an everyone already knew — Engthe het land will be hard pressed to qualpapers; ify for next year's World Cup.

The Line Before the match Taylor said

of Log be planned to experiment with a rent three-man defence and two wingritish he backs and he was looking for in a see players who could adapt to such changes.

He found he didn't have them

the Sun and must now again start searching for a formula that will book is discrete England a place to the United 2v whe States next year. Taylor played down Germany's

> "It was all down to Lothar Matthaeus. If he had been playing for England today we would have won. He gave a world-class performance. He was the difference between the two sides," said the Luie Taylor. Despite the novelty of playing the first ever international under cover on normal grass pitch, neither teams seemed to be il repuir affected by it.

Stefan Effenberg opened the According scoring after only 26 minutes i helms belong when Matthaeus pass set him free inside the English area. Effenberg slipped his defen-ef cent of der and slid the ball past a helpless Nigel Martyn.

England, despite being totally ies'

MDOIL

1200

医前线

Back " athers 5

mich:

द्धारा अहे

louis airi-

fficials.

HUTEN

nd blade

udy

Karlheinz Riedle of Germany (right) and Nigel Clough of England go after the ball during their match at the Pontiac Silverdome (AFP photo)

outclassed, drew level only five minutes later when a long-ball from Paul Merson caught the German defence flat-footed.

David Platt found himself alone in the area and made no mistake to head into the far corner well out of the reach of goalkeeper Bodo Illgner.

Ten minutes after the restart Christian Ziege ran through the faltering English defence only to see his shot rebound off the post. But Monaco-based striker Jurgen Klinsmann was on hand to collect the loose ball and make it

Klinsmann's goal made him the

The 29-year-old said he was "very satisfied" with the victory over England.

"We came here to win. We took the tournament very qualify for the World Cup. It was good work out for us," he said. England's defeat left them languishing in last place with only a single point to their name. Brazil finished second with seriously as we don't have to hosts the United States third.

Final Standings

	r	).	B	Gř	UA	P 15
Germany	3	2	0	1	9	7	5
Brazil	3	1	ð	2	6	4	4
United States	3	1	2	0	5	6	2
England	3	9	2	1	2	5	1

Born-again Navratilova hungry for 10th title

mish to LONDON (AFP) — Martina ahead THE TO IS Navratilova may be only four : in the months short of her 37th birthday but as she prepares her bid for a wife historic tenth Wimbledon title to she is only half-joking when she Steffi Graf, the major barrier Ran Pol Steffi Grar, the major partier and in the way of what could be a farewell triumph for the veteran at this year's All England Championships, was happy to prepare number alone with her coach.

But for Navratilova there is no substitute for the confidence in the final against an opponent gained from winning competitive who seemed to be hitting the lines hive matches 1051 82 And it was tournament win number 163 at Eastbourne Saturday — the 11th time she has won there — that left her bubbling with enthusiasm for the task

WITH OMAR SHARIF & TANNAH HIRSCH

17177 Q.1—Both vulnerable, as South

43

mput West North East South

ear per A.—If partner does not have four by $55 years much be seen that a

the sire of suit to woodenly commit partner of your strength by cue-

Q2-Both vulnerable, as South

must appear for partners major suit.
Support for partners major suit.
And rule out a jump to four field and spades—that denies much in the hors, 869 way of defensive aroughly. The way hers and the show your good or cing space raise is, with a cue-hid of three rous of hearts.

What do you bid now?

A licenimpete over a weak twothat at the parties need not have more than a thing minimum opening bid and notice.

Parties in income and the obvious

very good hand. Either way, you want to be in game. Since this is not be an unmanageable 4-3 fit. tell

Pu bold: 10863 A10643 AJ10 13

A -- Don't even consider a penalty

double when you have four-card

Q.3-Neither vulnerable, as South

443 AQ7 A83 498762
The binding has proceeded:
West 'North East South
2 2 Pass ?

· 33 № 2 The bidding has proceeded:

ear BE: What do you hid now?

you hold:

hre: № •J864

ANSWERS TO WEEKLY BRIDGE QUIZ

4942

Pass

to two hearts.

action do you take?

41064

♣A983

AKQJ +J84

Ironically, she was not even supposed to play at the windy seaside resort where she has been part of the June furniture for the last two decades.

But an early exit in Birming-ham to Australia's Kristine Radford forced a speedy rethink and it all came good in the end with a confidence-building 2-6, 6-2, 6-3 final win over the rapidlyimproving Dutch girl Miriam

Fighting back from a set down with every other service particularly heartened her.

Q.4-As South, vulnerable, you

A .- Despite its two aces, this hand

s not as good as it looks. Your hand is flat, the jack of diamonds might not be working and even the jack of hearts could be a doubtful asset. We would settle for a conservative raise

Q.5-East-West vulnerable, as

South you hold: •Q AQJ865 AJ9752 •Void

Your right-hand opponent opens the bidding with one spade. What

A.—If your system includes a method of showing a red two-suiter.

by all means use it. If not, we suggest you simply overcall two hearts.

Two-suited hands are notoriously difficult to describe if you start with a takeout double. Don't worry.

You'll get a chance to hid again!

Void

The hidding has proceeded:
East South West No.
1 2 P.

What action do you take?

A .- Partner can't have much, but it would be craver to pass. The most flexible action available is to double. Since partner has not yet bid, that's for takeout. And since you did not double initially, it suggests you have no more than three

South, vulnerable, you

AKJ1087

North Pass

The hidding has proceeded:

What do you hid now?

AJ52 J82 #A72

South West North Pass Pass I

"That was sweet. I changed it up and did a strategy shift midmatch and it worked. It is as good as I have ever played in the wind, GOREN BRIDGE which she has based her entire season. But despite being forced to play her third round match and quarter-final Thursday, she clear-

> much more than it had cost. after two matches but today it the final. Navratilova, who sticks rigorously to a demanding fitness programme and no-meat diet, my dody feels more balanced." that, Navratilova quashed them with the point took her to 3-2 in the third set Saturday.

I served well the whole game and

"That certainly did not help," Navratilova said of the Birmingham defeat. "But now I'm back on track. I feel great and I'm hungry right now."

Navratilova, who works closely with Billie Jean King on the mental aspects of her game, feels she has added the ability to adapt to different circumstances. That could be crucial if she is to avoid her fate last year, when she was beaten in three sets by Monica Seles in the semi-finals after failing to break up the world number one's baseline rhythm. "It's definitely something I have got better at over the years," Navratilova said.

Navratilova had originally planned to skip Eastbourne because of concern that playing so close to Wimbledon might leave her jaded for the two weeks upon

ly felt the win here had given her

"I felt pretty beat up on Friday was better than yesterday and that's a good sign," she said after feels she is in better shape than at ner, Sergi Bruguera of Spain. this time last year.

"I feel I'm moving better and If there were any doubts about

Coming in behind a short serve, she had to lurch low to her backhand side to get to Oremans' blistering return. The ball looped over the net and sat up at midcourt for the Dutch girl to smash whata seemed like a certain winner past Navratilova's backhand. Not only did the American anticipate where the ball was going but, incredibly, she man-aged to throw herself full length and produce a winning cross court

Oremans, who could barely walk when Navratilova made her Grand Slam debut at the 1973 French Open, could only look on with utter disbelief in her eyes.

"She is still a pretty difficult player to beat," she admitted afterwards. "She has got a good chance to win Wimbledon this year.

Leconte's wins first tournament since 1988

In Germany France's Henri Leconte won the Halle grass court tournament Saturday, beating Ukrainian Andrei Medvedev 6-2, 6-3 in the final, for his first tournament success in five years. Leconte, currently ranked 141 in the world, won an event in Brussels in 1988, the same year he reached the final of the French

Open. Saturday's win was some consolation for going out of this year's French Open in the first round, albeit to the eventual win-

Leconte, 29, required only an hour under sunny skies to sweep aside the challenge of Medvedev in front of 9,000 spectators on the

"It's a great feeling to win a title again after five years," said Leconte on his ninth tournament

TO LET Deluxe Furnished Apartment

Two bedrooms, dining and sitting room. Jabal Al Weibdeh next to AMID EAST - opposite Near East Foundation.

Tel. 639544 - 634157

FURNISHED DELUXE APARTMENT/SEMI VILLA For Rent

Consisting of two bedrooms, two bathrooms, corridor, 6×8m L-shaped hall, with plaster decorations and crystal chandelier, veranda, garden planted with trees, private entrance, ground floor, new building. Located in Tia Al Ali adjacent to Al Wifaq Park. With independent central heating, solar heater, telephone. Amer Ben Wa'ela Street, No. 29, with two intercoms.

Please call tel. 681516

Phoenix fans have faith in their team

PHOENIX (AP) — Throw a tent over Phoenix, and you'd have the world's largest revival meeting, with Charles Barkley as the

This gospel has just one tenet - that the Phoenix Suns are destined to win the NBA Cham-

The Suns' ability to survive in the playoffs by winning five games when a loss meant elimination has converted many followers to a mystical point of view. It doesn't hurt that the franchise is in its 25th anniversary season and has a new temple of worship—the America West Arena, which opened in May 1992.

Fans react these days to each new Phoenix victors as if it were a season and has a new temple.

new Phoenix victory as if it were a gift from beaven.

An estimated 12,000 people gathered at the airport about 2 a.m. Saturday (0900 GMT) to welcome the Suns back after their 108-98 game-5 victory over the Chicago Bulls.

Earlier, they and other thousands filled streets, sports bars and restaurants with the sounds of celebration, as though the Suns had clinched their first title instead of avoiding a loss which would have given the Bulls their third straight. The win forced a sixth game, and was the first of three Phoenix needs to become the only team to fall behind 3-1 in the finals and

The Bulls are 3-0 in Phoenix this season, but that didn't dampen spirits.

"Michael Jordan can drive his Porsche and his Ferrari and whatever else he wants, because they're not going to win," Suns fan Gladys Olson said.

At a performance of "Jesus Christ Superstar" in Symphony Hall near the arena, battery-powered headsets were evident in every row among partons of the musical's reunion tour.

The game ended just as the lights went up at intermission after the first act, and the unseen Suns got a standing ovation.

The belief in the miraculous centres around Barkley, introduced when he arrived in Phoenix a year ago as the player who could give the team the backbone it needed to reach the finals and

The Suns fell behind 0-2 to the Los Angeles Lakers in the first round, and coach Paul Westphal turned prophet, predicting his team would win three straight. The prophecy came true when Suns won in overtime in the fifth game of the series, and Barkley began talking about des-

Game 5 was barely over when residents began predicting that their city would come off better than Chicago, where officials mindful of the lawlessness that erupted last year after the Bulls took the title called out the National Guard and put police officers on overtime Friday. Some businesses put plywood over their windows. "Phoenix is civilised. There won't be any riots," Barkley said. But Jordan said the talk didn't amount too much.

"He's got a different destiny than what he see. We're destined to win as much as he's destined to win, and right now we've got the one game up," he said. other bronze.

FURNISHED SEMI-VILLA FOR RENT

Located in Um Uthaina. Consisting of three bedrooms, spaciouis salon, kitchen, three bathrooms, dining room, central heating, telephone, electricity, water, garage, garden. Annual rent. Tel. 675819, 644630

APARTMENTS FOR RENT

Three apartments in the same building ready to rent furnished or unfurnished on first and second floor with three and two bedrooms three and two baths. The ground floor could be rented also but with the other three apartments. The ground floor consists of four B.R. with total area 300 sq.m. The apartments are new, and were not used before. Location: The end of Al Rabieh area, towards Tia Al Ali.

Central heating, parking, telephones are available. Diplomatic staff and foreign community who are concerned kindly call: Tel. 821402, 667398
9-12 a.m. — 3-5 p.m., Mr. Hasweh for 3 days

Tel:829882/829883

Tel.: 634144

Jordan's national team

World Cup preliminaries

Jordan defeat Pakistan 5-0 By Aleen Bannayan

Special to the Jordan Times JORDAN SUNDAY handed

Pakistan their eighth loss, scoring a 5-0 victory in the Asian Group A qualifying matches for the 1994 World Cup. The win kept Jordan in fourth place in the group which also includes Iraq, China and Yemen. Iraq, who were to face Yemen in the final match late Sunday, have already qualified to the six-team second round to determine the two teams that will represent Asia in the finals in the United States. The Jordanian team, who have had a series of disappointing results losing 4-0 to Iraq and 4-1 to China in the second leg and scoring their only win 3-1 over Pakisten in the over Pakistan in the first leg, dominated the match especially in the first half. Although the team missed the efforts of Ahmad Abdul Qader, Mohammad Al Khazali, Hisham Abdul Munem and Aref Hussein, due to injury or suspension, Jordan managed to secure on early lead with Subhi Suleiman scoring the first goal in the 14th minute.

The Kingdom's top striker Jiryes Tadros scored the second goal in the 23rd minute. Jordan scored their third and nutes of the first half. Mohammad Al Ashbab netted the 3rd goal from a header, while Ahmad Al Shaqran blasted a powerful shot from well outside the penalty box ending the first half with a 4-0 lead.

Pakistan repeatedly tried to score a face-saving goal. A definite chance was converted a corner kick by defender Firas Al Khalaileh in the 61st minute when goalie Mohammad Abu Daoud was out trying to block

Jordan's Jihad Abdul Munem lost an easy scoring chance in the 67th minute. Suleiman made up for that by scoring his second and Jor-dan's fifth goal in the 70th minute when he received a pass from Jamal Abu Abed and netted in the accurate short to the left of the Pakista-

A goal by Nart Yadaj in the 75th minute was ruled offside by the referee. Yadaj again tried to add another goal but his shot hit the post.

Pakistan's only other chance was blocked by Abu Daoud in the 85th minute.

The winless Pakistani team got a definite scoring chance in the final seconds of the match when the referee awarded them a penalty shot. Abu Daoud, however, blocked his second penalty shot of the tournament ending the match with a morale-boosting win for the Jordanian team who in addition to the burden of being scored for their unimpressive results got a further disappointing surprise when their belongings were stolen including passports and airplane tick-

Standings after Sunday's 1st

	r	₩	ע	L	GF	GA	Pts
Ireq	7	6	1	-	27	2	13
China	7	5				3
Yemen	8	3				13
Jordan	8	2				15	_
Dalekston			_	Li i	_		:

Mediterranean Games

Syrian gains first gold in track

Zeid Abouhamed made Syria's first gold in the track a memorable one as he set a Mediterranean Games record in the 400 metre hurdles Saturday. Abouhamed's time of 49.09 seconds bettered the 49.27 of France's Stephane Caristan set two years ago. Caristan finished eighth Saturday behind Abouhamed.

Syria had won just two bronze medals in track and field since the beginning of the Mediterranean Games in 1951. Once was when Syria hosted the games in 1987 at Lattaquie when Al Hussein Hafez gained third in the men's javelin. A women's relay was the Chouaa placed second behind France's Nathalie Teppe who set another games record with a and his wife Nouzha Bidouane 6,256 points. Chouaz's 6,186 was won gold. Sahere took the 3,000 a Syrian record.

she was first disqualified then reinstated in the final 800 metres. A jury of appeals ruled that she did not cut in early and her time was valid.

The jury of appeals already took away a gold medal when a review of the tape revealed that 8.08-metre (26-foot, 61/4) jump was ruled invalid and Greece's Spyros Vasdekis took first with an 8.03-metre (26-foot-4 1/4) nastics while France's Eleanore

(25-10¾). France came away with two more golds as Dan Philibert won the men's hurdles and Pierre and Italy 21 through 88 events.

women's heptathlon when Ghada beating temmate Georges Sainte rose on the last jump.

Morocco's Abdelaziz Sahere steeplechase in 8:25.24 while Chouas held onto second after Bidouane repeated in the women's 400 hurdles with a mark of 56.09 ahead of teammate Nadia Zatouani. New republics of Croatia and ""

Slovenia took titles. Croatia's -

Ivan Mustapic took the men's javelin with a throw of 79.46 metres (260 feet 8 inches). France's Serge Helen fouled on his top jump from Friday. The the women's 100 hurdles in 13.10... Italy's Yuri Chechi added two. individual golds to go with his all-around medal in men's gym-effort. Helen was dropped to Coufee won two of the four indi-third with a best of 7.89 metres vidual women's events. Italy and France continued to battle for the overall lead in the. medal count. France had 25 golds.

RUSH SALE

Volkswagen - Passat (Wagon). Model 1982, brown colour. 5-cylinder, 1800 cc. Duty unpaid US$ 2,500.00

Peugeot-504 (Sedan). Model 1982, beige colour. 4cylinder, 1600cc, (with aircon). Duty unpaid, US$ 2,500.00

> Contact — Philippine Embassy Tel. No. 645-161/643-421 After 5:00 p.m. Tel. No. 652605

JEEP FOR SALE

Duty unpaid 1987 Daihatsu Rocky, 4×4. 116.000 km. Blue colour, stereo cassette, very good condi-

Price: Only JD 3,500 for quick sale.

Contact: British Embassy - 823100

meeting and came, and the obvious action is a hid of two no trump. Tel.: 677420 Trong Cinema CONCORD 0 D FEW GOOD MEN

Shows: 12:30, 3:00, 5:45, 8:15, 10:30 p.m.

Cinema PLAZA Happy Eld Al Adha Adel Imam - in The Forgotten Arabic -Shows at 11 a.m. 500, 3:30, 6:30, 8:30, 10:30, 12:30 p.s

Tel.: 699238 Cinema

PHILADELPHIA OPPORTUNITY Knocks

Children's show at 11 a.m. on Thursdays, Fridays and Sundays the movie: The Fox and the Hound Shows: 12:30, 3:30, 6:15, 8:30, 10:30

Tel.: 675571 Nabil Al Mashini Theatre

For the first time in Amman you have a date with the National Pelestician Theatre the Gaza Strip — in a play entitled:

The Assassination of Hanthalah by artist Saeed Bitar

Shows on Friday and Saturday, June 4 and 5 at $230 p.m. Piease book seats in advance

Nabil & Hisham's Tel.: 625155 AHLAN THEATRE

presents

2) Ahlan New World Order

at 9 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Sature

1) Parliament and Budge ... at 9 p.m. on Modday, Tuesday and Wednesday

Billionaire gives

HIGHTSTOWN, New Jersey

(R) — As the biggest gift ever given to an American secondary school, billionaire publisher Walter Annenberg is donating $100 million to the little-known boy-record $100m

gift to school

NEWS IN BRIEF

Lebanese defence minister visits Tehran

NICOSIA (AP) — Lebanese Defence Minister Mohsen Dalloul met in Tehran with Iranian Deputy Foreign Minister Ali Mohammad Besharati and briefed him on the latest developments in Lebanon, Iran's state-run news agency reported Sunday. The agency, IRNA, said Mr. Dalloui expressed appreciation for Iranian assistance to Lebanon and "underlined the need for unconditional withdrawal of the Zionist forces from southern Lebanon and for the Lebanese groups to preserve their national unity." Mr. Besharati praised "the heroic resistance of the Lebanese people in defending their homeland" and "voiced Tehran's support for their continued struggle against the aggressions of the Zionist regime." IRNA said. Mr. Dalloul also met Saturday with Hassan Firouzabadi, the chief of Iran's joint military staff, and briefed him on the capabilities of Lebanon's army, said the dispatch.

Blast at Israeli range kills Palestinian

OCCUPIED JERUSALEM (R) — A Palestinian youth was killed on Saturday night by an explosion at an Israeli army firing range in the Jordan Valley, military officials said. They said the army was investigating the cause of the blast, which also slightly injured a Palestinian boy who was evacuated by helicopter to hospital. Soldiers at a nearby army base rushed to the scene after hearing the explosion, they said.

First train passes through Channel Tunnel

LONDON (AFP) — The first high speed train crossed from France to Britain via the Channel Tunnel Sunday in a test run. The British Eurostar, with a narrower gauge than French trains, made a slow crossing pulled by diesel locomotives, arriving at Folkestone in southeastern England at 10:20 a.m. (0920 GMT). three hours and 20 minutes after leaving Coquelles in northeastern France. The Train, 200 metres long, was carrying 30 engineers on the test run, designed to try out the British terminal and lines.

Man armed with knife seized along papal route

ROME (AFP) - A Polish man armed with a 30-cm knife and a tear-gas grenade was arrested Sunday morning in Foligno, central Italy, minutes before Pope John Paul II has due to pass by, Italian police said. The 33-year-old man, whose identity was not been revealed, was arrested on the route laid out for the Pope on a pastoral visit to the central Italian town. Police said the man had lived in Italy for several years and had a criminal record. He was taken to the local police station for questioning.

Clinton not a strong leader, says survey

WASHINGTON (AFP) - President Bill Clinton is not a strong leader, 68 per cent of U.S. voters said in a poll released Saturday. The U.S. News and World Report survey also gave Mr. Clinton a 39-per cent approval rating, while 53 per cent of the 1,000 voters polled gave his job performance a negative review. Forty per cent said they believed Mr. Clinton's leadership abilities were "only fair," while 28 per cent said they were "poor." Twenty-six per cent said his leadership skills were "good" and five per cent said

Taiwan plans talks with China this summer

TAIPEI (R) — Taiwan plans to hold talks with China this summer on a range of issues including the repatriation of thousands of illegal Chinese immigrants, officials said at the weekend. The talks will be the first formal negotiations between the two sides since they agreed at a high-level meeting in Singapore last April to create a system of regular contacts.

Iran cracks down on loose dress

TEHRAN (AFP) — Iran is launching a new crack-down on women who violate the strict Islamic dress code and will mobilise the entire police force in Tehran, police warned Sunday. A police who disregard the code could face arrest and trial if spotted in the streets or passing cars. The police force would also ensure that "inappropriately-covered women are denied service" in all public and commercial places. Iran has been ruled by Islamic law since the 1979 revolution which toppled the pro-Western Shah. In public, women have to conceal their hair and be covered from head to toe in dark colours. They only have the option of wearing the black chador or long raincoats and scarves. The penalty for improper dress or too much make-up can be beatings but is more often a verbal or written warning and fines.

Comoros president sacks government

MORONI (R) - President Said Mohammad Djohar has dissolved parliament and sacked Prime Minister Said Ali Mohammad and his government in response to a new political crisis in the Comoros. Gendarmes guarded the federal assembly building on Saturday after Mr. Djohar announced the appointment of Ben Sheikh Ahmed. 53, as the new prime minister. The latest crisis in the Indian Ocean island erupted last week when 12 members of parliament proposed a motion of censure against Mr. Ali Mohammad's government, which had been sworn in only a few days earlier. The motion said Mr. Djohar acted unconstitutionally by appointing a prime minister who did not have the support of a majority in the assembly after the previous prime minister. Ibrahim Halidi, had lost a confidence vote.

Rebels refuse to free Sri Lankan prisoners

COLOMBO (R) — Tamil guerrillas fighting for independence in Sri Lanka refused Sunday to free 38 policemen and a soldier they captured three years ago until new rebel demands were met, a senior Defence Ministry officer said. "Earlier they (the rebels) promised to free the prisoners unconditionally," said the officer.
"But when our emissary met them they put forward new demands." The Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam, fighting for a separate state for Sri Lanka's 2.5 million Tamil minority, were widely expected to free the prisoners Sunday after talks in the rebels' northern Jaffna stronghold with the International Committee of the Red Cross and a Sri Lankan army officer. The Defence Ministry officer said the officer was on his way back with the guerrillas' new demands.

Gaidar to lead reformist party

MOSCOW (AP) - Yegor Gaidar, the architect of Russia's economic reforms who was ousted by hard-liners, was elected Sunday to head a fledgling pro-reform group, a news agency reported. Mr. Gaidar will lead the All-Russian Bloc of Reform Supporters, which will campaign for reformist candidates in parliamentary elections expected later this year, member Galina Starovoitova told the Interfax news agency. The organisation was founded two days after President Boris Yeltsin's aides announced they were forming the Party for Russian Unity and Accord, also to campaign for reformist candidates. The groups were separate, but their aims and even membership likely would overlap in preparation for elections. Mr. Yeltsin has suggested holding October elections to replace the Soviet-era Congress of People's

Pathologist examines London gay stalker victims

LONDON (R) — Top British pathologist is to re-examine the bodies of four of the five victims of a killer terrorising London's gay community as part of a search for vital evidence. Dr. IainWest will be the first pathologist to compare all the bodies when he examines them on Monday. One of the victims has already been cremated. Scotland Yard said police were assembling information gleaned from some 50,000 marchers in the capital's gay pride rally on Saturday. "A number of people approached the police during the march with information." she said. Victims frequented bars and clubs in London's gay scene and are thought to have been strangled or suffocated, some possibly after involvement in sado-masochistic sex at the victims' homes. The killer has vowed in telephone calls to police to kill one gay man a week.

Atmosphere tense in Israeli-Lebanon talks

The atmosphere is tense in ment." Israeli-Lebanese sessions of the Israeli delegation members doing what the Syrians tell them, Israelis of hegemonistic ambitions and say the first thing to be done is for Israel to acknowledge that it is an occupying force in southern Lebanon.

Paradoxically, tension has risen in the Israeli-Lebanese talks at a time when both sides in the Israeli-Syrian session have been at pains to avoid the bitter tone of previous negotiating sessions.

Israeli and Syrian delegates have repeatedly stressed the serious, and even pleasant, tone of their meetings during the current 10th round of Arab-Israeli bilateral peace talks which began in Washington on Tuesday.

But after Israeli-Lebanese talks Thursday, the head of the Lebanese delegation, Souheil Shammas, called for a change of mentality by the Israeli side saving they would have to acknowledge that they were an occupying power in southern Lebanon before the talks could and 70 meetings, we are back at tory shelling from Israel and its the starting point, Israeli delegation head Uri Lubrani told AFP.

Security sources said the guer-

He ruled out any recognition by Israel that it is occupying surprising because it comes at a time when 90 per cent of He challenged Lebanon to prove that it could ensure security along its border with Israel. "The of preventing attacks against

"We are sceptical, but we are nonetheless ready to allow said a number of Katyushas landourselves to be persuaded if they ed in northern Israel's Galilee show us proof," he said.

Mr. Lubrani stressed that

Israel "has no territorial designs on Lebanon" and that Israeli any damage from the attack. troops would leave southern

WASHINGTON (Agencies) - framework of a peace agree-

Middle East peace talks here, said that before any withdrawal with the two sides trading accusa- Israel would also need to be assured of the security of the The Israelis complain that South Lebanon Army (SLA). Lebanese negotiators are simply which acts as support for the Israeli army in the Israeliwhile the Lebanese accuse the organised "security zone" in southern Lebanon.

Mr. Lubrani said that problems associated with U.N. Security Council Resolution 425 could only be resolved in the context of eace accord. Resolution 425, approved in the U.N. Interim Force In Lebanon (UNIFIL) "for the purpose of confirming the withdrawal of Israeli forces, restoring international peace and security and assisting the government of Lebanon in ensuring the return of its effective authority in the area."

1978, called for an immediate withdrawal of Israeli forces from Lebanese territory. The resolution also established

Clashes in S. Lebanon

Unidentified guerrillas fired 12 Katyusha rockets into northern Israel and Israel's self-styled "security zone" in South Lebanon Sunday, security sources and Israeli officials said.

No casualties were reported "It is a fact, the negotiations from the violence, which erupted with Lebanon are the most at 2:40 p.m. (1550 GMT). It strained. After 19 months of talks touched off a barrage of retaliarillas pounded the village of Beit Leef inside the zone with mortar Lebanese territory. fire and rocket-propelled gre-"This demand is all the more nades before firing 12 Katyushas. fire and rocket-propelled gre-

They said Israeli troops and SLA militiamen struck back on Lebanese soil is occupied by the predominantly villages of Ya-another country," he added, in a ter and Kafra with at least 40 reference to Syrian forces in rounds of mortar and tank fire and Howitzer shells.

A U.N. officer with the peacekeeping force in South Lebanon said several rounds of Lebanese claim they are capable Howitzer shells fell harmlessly near a Nepalese observation post just south of Yater. In Israel, an army spokesman panhandle. He said there were no injuries and it was still being investigated whether there was

There was no immediate re-Lebanon "as soon as Israel's sponsibility claim for the security is assured in the Katyusha attack.

Police blame Al Jihad for deadly Cairo nail bomb

lawed Muslim fundamentalist group Al Jihad for the nailwounded 20.

In southern Egypt, disposal ex- site of a new subway line. perts defused a time-bomb packed with nails four minutes before

Two days after the bombing, there was no claim of responsibilit was set to explode in a busy street of Aswan's commercial district, police said.

A police spokesman said Al Jihad was also behind a bomb attack May 21 near a Cairo police station that killed seven as well as a tour bus bombing on June 8, in British holidaymakers were wounded.

Al Jihad, an offshoot of Al Gamaa Al Islamiyeh at the forefront of a year-long wave of CAIRO (Agencies) — Egyptian and Parliamentary Speaker police Sunday blamed the out- Rifaat Al Mahjoub in 1990.

The blast on Friday, the eighth in Cairo so far this year, targeted packed bomb in a busy Cairo the northern slum of Shubra. It slum that killed seven people and ripped through a workers' shed used by French engineers on the ity but the official news agency MENA said the bomb appeared to be of a sort used in previous blasts blamed on Islamic mili-

The bomb, made up of TNT, sprayed nails and started a fire. with most of the casualties inwhich two Egyptians died and six flicted in a cafe. The attack sparked anti-terrorist protests in Shubra, home to one million inhabitants.

The authorities have since reinforced security in busy sectors of violence in Egypt, assassinated Cairo, deploying military police President Anwar Sadat in 1981 alongside other security forces.

Algerian premier seeks dialogue with militants

ALGIERS (AP) — Prime Minister Belaid Abdul Salam said he is an Islamic state, was poised for

Friday night on state-run televi- excluded from a "political diasion mark a major departure logue" between the government from the hard line of the coun- and parties. try's military-backed leaders Major differences emerged

an especially strong opponent of jailed. compromise, said sympathisers of the Islamic Salvation Front (FIS)

The prime minister continued to exclude any contact with the

voted for the front are not ene-mies but citizens who, in good But he said: "We have the duty conscience, made choices which to contact (fundamentalist miliwould be hurtful to the country," tants) to convince them to change Mr. Abdul Salam said in an their minds and ideas so they can address to the National Confer- be integrated into the political ence of Children of the Chouha- process. da, those who died in the independence war with France.

carrot and stick approach to deal- ing body before presidential and ing with fundamentalists. The parliamentary elections are evenmoderate tone comes in the midst tually held. A referendum is to be of a stepped-up campaign against held before year's end to help armed extremists, whom Mr. decide what will follow the ruling Abdul Salam called "criminals... committee, and a national conferwho will be fought until they are ence is set for July to fix a in favour of dialogue with mili- an overwhelming victory in partants of the banned Muslim fun- liamentary elections when the damentalist movement as long as January 1992 second round was they are not part of the extremist abruptly cancelled and a five-man battle against Algeria's lead- leadership team put in power by the army. The group was banned The unprecedented remarks in a massive crackdown and been since they came to power 18 overwhether to include moderate members of the FIS in the politic-Mr. Abdul Salam, considered al process. All its leaders are now must not be considered "ene-mics." armed Islamic groups waging a guerrilla-style war that has left "I say it in all frankness: "The more than 800 people dead. The three million Algerians who FIS has formalaly backed the

The ruling High State Council ends its term in December, but is It appeared to signify a new moving to establish another rulreferendum date.

RELIEF MOVES: Dockers Sunday unload a cargo of sacks of American maize at Mogadishu

Iraq seeks to ease sanctions

MANAMA (AFP) — Iraq is sion for disarming post-war Iraq, and technical evaluation of what aiming to ease a three-year-old was "full of lies" and concocted has already been executed" to economic embargo imposed by the United Nations by bargaining over U.S. demands that surveillance cameras be installed at missile test sites near Baghdad.

"Our destiny is to go all the way... and act decisively to break the embargo," the Baghdad newspaper Babel, run by the president's son Uday Hussein, insisted Sunday.

Iraq has offered to consider the demand of U.N. arms inspectors to set up cameras at two missile test sites if the United Nations agreed to examine the lifting of sanctions in force since Iraq's August 1990 invasion of Kuwait.

Babel dismissed a U.N. Security Council warnings and charged that a critical report drawn up by Rolf Ekeus, head of the commis-

by Washington to harm the Iraqi On Friday, following the Ekeus violate U.N. ceasefire resolutions and warned that failure to comply could have serious consequences. Mr. Ekeus said Iraq was refus-ing to allow U.N. experts to set Tuesday. up cameras at Yawm Al Azim and Rafah, 65 kilometres south of Baghdad and to transport chemical weapons-related equipment to a designated site for destruc-But Baghdad insists it has cooperated with U.N. disarmament resolutions and that the Security Council should reexamine lifting the embargo. "Iraq is only demanding a legal report, the Security Council ac-cused Baghaad of continuing to Deputy Prime Minister Tareq Aziz is expected to present Iraq's case for an easing of the sanctions at a meeting with U.N. Secretary General Boutros Ghali in Geneva implement Resolution 687 on the elimination of its weapons of mass destruction, the official Ira-

Sheikh Saad meets Hakim

Kuwait Prime Minister Sheikh Saad Al Abdullah Al Sabah Monday held talks with Iraqi opposition leader Mohammad Bakr Al Hakim, the Kuwait News Agency

Sheikh Hakim, leader of the Iran-based Supreme Council of the Islamic Revolution in Iraq (SCIRI) arrived Saturday.

Israel debates cutbacks to settlers

cabinet debated Sunday whether to cut back aid to Jewish settlements in the occupied territories because of the peace talks.

The finance minister proposed that the government discontinue earlier plans for long-term investments in the occupied territories, Health Minister Haim Ramon told reporters after the weekly cabinet meeting.

Finance Minister Avraham last week in relati the Golan Heights, ha te to a cabinet vote. ..

stirred controversy. Agriculture Minister Yaacov Tsur, who represer e government's right wing, and Israel Radio that curbing investment would pre-empt Israeli nego-tiators at the U.S.-backed Middle East peace talks. "Saying we are not investing does political damage before we even know where the negotia-tions will go," Tsur said.

Many refugees released

from detention were reunited

with family members in Croatia with help from international organisations, but thousands are still searching

Some refugees who were originally scheduled to fly to Amman refused to board the chartered Royal Jordanian flight saying they were still seeking their family members in Zag-reb, the Croatian capital, offi-

In the meantime, those who arrived are trying to forget their nightmare, but it is not easy.

"Women are raped and mutilated and men are brutally beaten up and dismembered, recounted Sylvia Terziech, a

55-year-old native of Priador village in Bosnia-Herzegovina.

cut off women'a breasts, stick rifles between their legs and said Mrs. Terziech, whose hus-band, Darwish, bore visible marks of torture and severe

"They beat me up, robbed

Mrs. Terziech said among the "dozens of rapes" that she had to witness included that of her sister-in-law, who "was

The Terziechs, speaking through an interpreter, recounted gruesome scenes

where bellies were split open and hands were chopped off.

"Hands and ears were cut off to remove "jewellery," said Mrs. Terziech.

blood on their chests with

Officials of the Jordan

Hashemite Charitable Orga-

knives," she said.

"Many had crosses drawn in murdered after the act."

me and then broke my jaw,"

said Mr. Terziech,

cut them with bayonnettes."

They (Serbs and Croats)

for their loved ones.

cial said.

beating.

But Mr. Ramon countered that long-term investment in the West Bank and Gaza Strip, occupied since 1967, was not a good bet because peace talks are focusing

we accept the principle of withdrawal on the Golan Heights, so it wouldn't be very wise to invest long-term for ten or 20 years," he In January, the Labour Partydominated government reversed on territorial "compromise."

"The government decided that ears of Likud government backing for the settlements, saying instead it would focus on sparsely-populated areas within But its plans still included giving some priority to economic development in settlements in the Golan Heights, the West Bank's Jordan Valley and the Gaza

Mr. Shohat's proposal would effectively reverse that plan. Israel has yet to declare the dimensions of any withdrawal John so from the Golan, although it has 35,000."

Second Bosnian batch arrives

nisation (JHCO) and Bosnian residents of Jordan who have volunteered to help the refugees said some of those arriving in Jordan had their eyes

gouged out during their detention while others had lost their medical care and were rushed to hospital," said Mohammad

Midah, an official of the JHCO. Twenty-two of the refugees are hospitalised, with at least four of them suffering

from severe neurotic prob-

Gesturing to Sunday's arrivals, who were awaiting allocation of rooms at the Umm

Teeneh government school ---which will be their temporary home — Mr. Midah said: "Most of these people are too traumatised or tired to speak of their experiences now."

JHCO officials said several of the women were victims of gang-rape by Serbs or Croats.

but were not willing to talk about their ordeal to anyone.

in a corner, starring into space.

Questions drew no response.

family butchered in front of her," said Zahid Ahmad, a Bosnian student and resident and, three furtive glances around as if unable to comprehend that they were finally out of danger. "It will take some time before they get their bearings and able to talk to you,"

Mohammad Abu Scif, a senior official of JHCO and head of Toddiers played around in the corridors enjoying their newfound freedom and security while elder children carried their scant belongings to the hardboard partitioned living

the camp, told reporters.

Many others looked haunted of Jordan since 1987.

A middle-aged woman stood

"She saw her husband and

lems, he said.

They required immediate committed itself to "territorial compromise." Israeli negotiators say they are waiting for the Syrians to define the terms of the peace before Isrel declares the dimensions of a withdrawal.

Despite continued investment in expanding settlements and the road networks between them, Jewish settlers have accused the government of trying to delegitimise them by drying up future funds. Last Thursday, some 10,000 settlers demonstrated against giving up the territories.

Foreign Ministers Shimon Peres said the government did not need to delegitimise the set-

"Elton John and Bob Dylan are delegitimising them." he told Israel Radio Saturday, referring to appearances by the rock stars in Israel last Thursday. "The settlers have their "mass protest" and hardly attract 10,000 people. John sold tickets - and got quarters inside the classrooms

in the three-storey building

ties and primary health-care

Army engineers were at

Many Yugoslav women and work setting up more facilities on the ground floor.

their Jordanian husbands who have had their education in Yugoslavia are in the forefront of voluntary services to help the refugees.

"Jordan is a small country,

but it has a big heart," said

Yasmin Kurdi, one of the volunteers and a resident of

'The government has

Jordan for the past 17 years.

already prepared all the necessities," said Mrs. Kurdi. "We want to see how we can offer

further help, to know whether

Mrs. Kurdi and JHCO offi-

they need clothes or money."

cials said several Scrbian

Christian women were among the volunteers. "There are no

(ethnic-oriented) problems for them to render help." Mrs.

Kurdi said. The Bosnian refugees came to Jordan in line with an agreement between the govern-ments of the Kingdom and

In addition to housing and feeding them, the JHCO, helped by the government as well as private citizens and organisations, is also arranging education for the children in

The curricula will include

Arabic, English and Bosnian languages as well as Islamic

No accurate split-up was available on the number of men, women and children in the group since the details

were being processed Sunday,

but they represent more than

Bosnia-Herzegovina.

the group.

studies.

80 families.

equipped with all basic amenifacilities.

NEW YORK (R) — The only Oscar awarded to Hollywood legend Joan Crawford in her 45year career was sold to a private collector at auction for $68,500, the first such sale of an Academy Award presented to a major star. The Oscar was awarded to the late actress for her performance as a housewife who turns into a 1945 film Mildred Pierce. The sale by Christie's auction house was for five times the pre-sale estimate of $8,000 to $12,000 The sale of the Oscar statuette is frowned upon by Academy of the Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. The academy's President objects of mere commerce." telegrams, personal effects and "The interest in the property from the estate of Joan Crawford has been tremendous," head of Christie's Collectibles Department Joshua Arfer said Crawford, who died in May 1977 at the age of 73, was one of Hollywood's biggest stars during its golden era, with some 80 film credits including Humoresque in 1946 and 1947's Possessed. Her reputation suffered in later years as she appeared in second-rate horror films. She was scathingly portrayed by Faye Dunaway in the 1981 film Mommie Dearest, based on a biography by daughter Christina. Friends of Crawford disputed the characterisation.

BANGKOK (AFP) - The Thai

government has criticised Time magazine for publishing a picture of a Thai bar girl on the cover of its current issue, which contains a story about prostitution around the world, a news report said Saturday. The Foreign Ministry has instructed its envoy to the United Nations in New York to lodge a complaint with the New York-based news magazine, said Ravee Hongprapas, the ministry's deputy spokesman. "The inside story, entitled The Skin Trade, was about prostitution around the world. Why did Time choose a picture of a Thai girl for the cover?" Mr. Ravee told the Nation newspaper. The Thai government has long acknowledged its problem and is trying hard to deal with it, the English-language daily quoted Mr. Ravee as saying. The Time cover story and a shorter story on child prostitua shorter story on child prostitution ran over 15 pages in the June 21 edition, to coincide with the World Conference on Human Rights in Vienne T. Rights in Vienna. The main story details the spread of prostitution around the world.

hood boarding school from which he graduated 66 years ago. Offi-cials of the Peddie School here said the gift is part of a huge $365 million donation by the Annenberg Foundation to Peddie, Harvard University, the University of Pennsylvania and the University of Southern California, Harvard will receive $25 million, Peddie $100 million and the University of Pennsylvania and USC will each get $120 million, the foundation said. Only one American university has received more in a versity has received more and the versity h single donation - the $125 million given to the Louisiana State University in 1981 by Claude Pennington. The Annenberg gifts eclipse the $60 million given to Columbia University earlier this year by John Kluge, the chairman of the Metromedia Co. The unprecedented $365 million gift comes just one month after Mr. Annenberg, 85, who owns one of the biggest collections of postimpressionist art in the world, paid $57 million for a Van Gogh painting — Wheat Field With A fules Cypresses and donated it to the

New York. A source at the Annenberg Foundation dismissed suggestions that the gift was Mr. Annenberg's last hurrah, saying the foundation still had assets of around $1.6 billion. Fortune magazine recently listed Mr. Annenberg, one of America's 10 10 most prolific philanthropists, in 80th position on its list of the world's richest people, with an estimated personal wealth of $2.5

Metropolitan Museum of Art in

yis Dis

era Mea

- our for L

⊴ areativ

-# :01113

330 D

加多米

:Tehrae

- 35 5576

. N ⊋en

≢E Vaco

ं चे इस ।

े जन

4≈ /(

- C

Joan Crawford Oscar sells for $68,500

Karl Malden said last year that the awards "should not become Crawford's Oscar was part of a wide range of items from her estate including congratulatory bound scripts of a number of her films. The Mildred Pierce script, based on the novel by James M. Cain, had been estimated to fetch $200 to $400 and sold for $7,475.

Thailand complains about Time cover